CHAPTER II: PROTECTION OF AND ASSISTANCE TO VICTIMS AND WITNESSES OF TRAFFICKING IN PERSONS

Article 8

The present law protects the privacy and identity of victims and witnesses of human trafficking in order to preserve them from retaliation, persecution, and/or intimidation. To this end, a system of protection for witnesses and victims, taking into account the status of vulnerable people, especially vulnerable victims such as children and women, must be established.

Therefore, all measures undertaken in connection with child victims and child witnesses shall be based on the principles of the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the guidelines on justice, including the primacy of the child's best interests and the principle that the child's views should be taken into account in all proceedings affecting him or her.

To this end, the measures outlined below must be followed throughout the procedure. In some cases, they will need to continue beyond the trial stage.

Section 1: Protection of and assistance to victims

8.1

Psychological, medical, and social support shall be provided to victims of human trafficking in order to meet their needs, including those of their dependents, notwithstanding the compensation to which said victims would be entitled under a civil action. The special educational needs of children shall be met.

8.2

If need be, victims of human trafficking shall be provided with legal assistance and the services of an interpreter.

This legal assistance shall ensure that victims' views and concerns are presented and taken into consideration at appropriate stages of the investigation and proceedings against offenders, without prejudice to the rights of the defense.

8.3

An alleged foreign victim of human trafficking shall enjoy the right to reside temporarily in Haiti for the duration of any legal proceedings against the perpetrators of offenses covered by the present law and/or their accomplices. Alleged victims can later obtain permanent residency if required by conditions that arise regarding their physical safety and social well-being upon return to their country of origin or of legal permanent residence, as stated in article 8.6 of the present law.

8.4

Alleged victims of human trafficking are not criminally responsible for their illegal entry, stay, or work in Haitian territory or for illegal acts performed because of their status as victims.

8.5

In addition to the provisions under Article 8.1, a program shall be developed to implement measures adopted with regard to the physical, psychological, and social recovery of victims of human trafficking, including, if necessary and in partnership with the relevant authorities, the provision of an appropriate place of refuge. If these victims are vulnerable children or women, it is appropriate to provide for the specific needs of their condition.

8.6

Action shall be taken to provide for the physical safety of foreign victims of trafficking in persons while they are within the national territory. These victims cannot, therefore, be subject to forced removal from said territory when there is no guarantee that they will be safe in their home country or country of origin. They can be subject to voluntary repatriation only under conditions of dignity and safety.

8.7

Under no circumstances can a person's status as a victim of trafficking or his or her situation in relation to emigration legislation justify his or her detention in any center.

Section 2: Special assistance to children

Article 9

When the age of the victim is uncertain and there are reasons to believe that the victim is a child, he or she shall be presumed to be a child and shall be treated as such, pending verification of his or her age; assistance to child victims shall be provided by specially trained professionals and in accordance with children's special needs, especially with regard to accommodation, education, medical care, and so on.

Where the victim is an unaccompanied minor, the Committee shall ensure that social services will implement emergency care, family research, and reintegration in the best interest of the child.

Child victims shall be provided with information on the procedure and measures taken in a language that they use and understand and in a manner appropriate to their age.

9.1

In cases of human trafficking involving children, hearings shall not be public. Parties, representatives, legal advisors, and any other persons whose presence is considered necessary by the court may attend all hearings and stages of the judicial process in cases relating to the previous paragraph.

9.2

The Committee may, at any time, inspect any private establishment intended for children and about which corroborative evidence may exist concerning activities relating to human trafficking. It may audit financial statements, accounting books and records, or any other relevant document involving the computer equipment of that establishment and set forth in the general rules. It may ensure the collection of grants, the filing of annual tax returns provided in tax legislation, and the conformity of all transactions carried out by the said establishment. The Committee uses the powers conferred on it by article 4.7 for the implementation and follow-up of the present law.

Section 3: Special witness protection

Article 10

Special protection and assistance shall be granted to witnesses in order to ensure their physical integrity and their appearance in court at all judicial stages, subject to relevant specific rules of evidence provided for in article 32 of the present law.

10.1

Appropriate measures shall be taken, without prejudice to any penalties imposed for the bribery of witnesses in article 311 of the Penal Code, for the monitoring of and to ensure compliance with the provisions related to witness protection in the present law, including the following:

- The provision of safe shelter.
- The restricted disclosure, for the conduct of proceedings, of witnesses' identity, together with any information pertaining to them.

TITLE II: CHARGES, SANCTIONS, AND LIABILITY

For any natural or legal person to launder money or the proceeds of trafficking in persons is regarded under the present law as an offense that, in accordance with the circumstances set forth below, shall be designated as a crime and be punishable by one of the penalties set forth in the provisions of the present law.

It is therefore prohibited for any natural person, company, or corporation to take part in any of the following acts:

- a. The conversion or transfer of property, knowing it to be the proceeds of trafficking in persons, for the purpose of concealing or disguising the illicit origin of such property or of assisting any person involved in the commission of the main offense to evade the legal consequences of his or her actions.
- b. The concealment or disguising of the true nature, source, location, disposition, movement, or ownership of or rights with respect to property, knowing that such property is the proceeds of the crimes referred to in the present law.
- c. The acquisition, possession, or use of property, knowing, at the time of receipt, that such property was derived from crimes related to trafficking in persons.

PARTICULAR PROVISIONS

Article 15

The penalties stipulated in articles 11, 13, 17, 20, 30, and 31 of the present law may be imposed, even when some of the acts constituting the offense were committed abroad.

15.1

In order to provide a basis for the prosecution of perpetrators of offenses related to trafficking in persons and their accomplices and accessories, the acts committed abroad must be of a criminal nature in the country where they were committed, as well as within Haitian territory. Extraditions shall be carried out in accordance with the procedure established by the present law.

- j. By a public official or civil servant, a custodian or agent of a governmental authority or law enforcement officer, or any person using the prerogatives associated with his or her office.
- k. By a person who has forged false identification papers, false travel documents, or false passports for the transit of trafficked persons through a foreign territory or their entry into Haitian territory.

The offenses set forth in articles 11, 12, 29, and 33 committed by more than one person or by any organized group using torture and acts of barbarity shall be punished by a sentence of life imprisonment.

Section 2: Extenuating circumstances, penalty reduction, and exemption

Article 22

Persons involved as accomplices or who participated in the preparation of the commission of the offenses covered by the present law and who have enabled or assisted in the identification or arrest of primarily the perpetrators of such offenses, shall have their penalty reduced by half, calculated based on the minimum time prescribed for the penalty.

22.1

A person found guilty of participating in an association or conspiracy under article 17 may be eligible for a reduced sentence if, by informing the administrative and/or judicial authority about the association or conspiracy, he or she made it possible to end the latter and arrest its members before they could act.

22.2

Victims of trafficking shall be exempted from all prosecution for illicit acts related to trafficking, committed while they were under the duress of the actual perpetrators of the offenses referred to in the present law.

22.3

Victims of trafficking in persons who allegedly committed a homicide under the same conditions as stipulated in the previous paragraph may be eligible for extenuating circumstances.

CHAPTER VI: OFFENSES COMMITTED BY LEGAL PERSONS OR ENTITIES

Article 23

If an offense under the present law has been committed by a legal person or entity and if it has been proved that this has occurred with the legal person or entity's consent or connivance, or has been the result of negligence on the part of a person performing the tasks of manager, director, secretary, or any other leader of the legal entity or that of a person supposed to act in any such capacity, the legal entity shall be guilty of an offense and may be subject to legal action, without prejudice to the criminal liability of the natural persons who have committed the offenses.

Article 24

If it is presumed that an establishment is knowingly involved or engaged in the perpetration of offenses related to trafficking in persons or in any other criminal act under the present law, the investigating judge may, at the request of the public prosecutor, order the justice of the peace concerned to put such establishment into receivership.

24.1

An establishment that has facilitated the commission of an offense referred to in the present law can be confiscated for the benefit of the state by the court having jurisdiction, in compliance with the relevant laws in each case.

24.2

Profits from the sale of property confiscated, in accordance with article 23, can be allocated to the special fund set up to combat trafficking in persons.

CHAPTER VII: ADDITIONAL MEASURES AND PENALTIES

Article 25

In the cases provided for in articles 23 and 24, courts shall order the definitive closure of any establishment open to the public, if such offenses were committed by the operator or in collusion with him or her.

The withdrawal of the authorization or license to operate may also be ordered definitively by the competent authorities.

In the cases provided for in articles 11, 13, 14, 14.1, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, and 21, courts may order

1. The definitive exclusion from the Haitian territory of any alien convicted of one of the offenses related to trafficking in persons; and
2. The full or partial confiscation of the convicted person's property of any kind whatever, whether real or personal, whether money or assets, for the benefit of the antitrafficking fund described in article 7.

CHAPTER VIII: REGARDING OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE

Section 1: Regarding obstacles to bringing matters before the court

Article 26

Anyone who shall be aware of a crime of human trafficking whose effects may still be prevented or limited, or whose perpetrators are likely to commit another crime that could be prevented, and who, out of indulgence, does not inform the judicial or administrative authorities thereof, shall be subject to imprisonment for a term of 1 to 3 years and a fine of between 20,000 and 75,000 gourdes.

Article 27

Any person who threatens or intimidates another in order to force the victim of a crime of human trafficking not to press charges against him or her or to retract accusations shall be subject to imprisonment for a term of 5 to 10 years and a fine of between 150,000 and 300,000 gourdes.

Section 2: Regarding obstruction of the course of justice

Article 28

Any judge or other member of a judicial panel who refuses to deliver justice, after being required to do so, and who perseveres in such refusal after having received a warning or order from his or her superiors, shall be punished according to the law governing that case.

Article 29

Any person who threatens or commits an act of intimidation against a judge, a juror, or any other member of a judicial panel, an arbiter, an interpreter, a party's expert or counsel, the representative of a human rights organization, or any other person involved in the defense of victims in order to influence their behavior in the performance of their duties shall be subject to imprisonment for a term of 5 to 10 years and a fine of between 150,000 and 300,000 gourdes.

CHAPTER IX: MEASURES REGARDING STATUTES OF LIMITATIONS FOR OFFENSES AND CONVICTION IN ABSENTIA

Article 30

No proceedings in respect of one of the offenses established by articles 11, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, and 21 may be instituted more than 30 years after the fact.

The proceedings in respect of the offenses established under the present law and committed in aggravating circumstances shall not be subject to any statute of limitations.

The sentences pronounced in absentia for one of these offenses shall not be subject to any statute of limitations.

TITLE III: PREVENTIVE SEIZURE, CONFISCATION, EVIDENCE, AND SPECIAL PROCEDURAL PROVISIONS

CHAPTER X: PREVENTIVE SEIZURE

Article 31

The judicial authorities, agents, and competent officials in charge of the detection and suppression of offenses related to trafficking in persons can, pursuant to articles 14 and 14.1, seize assets in connection with the offenses committed, as well as any information that might allow such assets to be identified.

31.1

The judicial authority having jurisdiction to order protective measures may, as a matter of course or upon request from the public prosecutor's office or its representative, order such measures at the state's expense, including the freezing of assets and financial transactions on property, of any kind, that is subject to seizure or confiscation.

CHAPTER XI: EVIDENCE AND SPECIAL PROCEDURAL PROVISIONS

Article 32

In order to obtain evidence relating to the original offense and to additional offenses under the present law, the investigating judge in the matter may, by a reasoned decision, on his or her own initiative or at the request of the government commissioner, and notwithstanding any objection based on professional or bank secrecy, order that the following steps be taken for a maximum period of three months, which can only be renewed once:

- Monitoring of bank accounts and similar accounts.
- Accessing of computer systems, networks, and servers.
- Wire-tapping or surveillance of telephone, fax, and all electronic means of transmittal and communication.
- Audio and video recordings of actions and conversations.
- Transmission of certified documents or private deeds and banking, financial, and commercial documents.
- Seizure of the documents mentioned above.

However, such interventions are possible only when there are solid and serious indications verifying that these telephone lines, computer systems, and networks or documents are being used or might be used by individuals suspected of involvement in offenses described in articles 11, 13, 14, 25, and 26 of the present law.

The investigating judge's decision is based on these criteria.

Article 33

Except in cases of abuse of authority or offenses referred to in Article 21 (h), officials or civil servants responsible for detecting original and additional offenses are not punishable when, with the sole aim of obtaining evidence related to offenses referred to in the present law and under the conditions set out in the following paragraph, they commit actions that can be construed as the elements of an offense under the present law.

The authorization of the chief justice of the court of first instance competent for the geographical area concerned shall be obtained before any intervention mentioned in the first paragraph. A detailed transcript shall be forwarded to this judge once the interventions have been completed.

Article 34

Bank secrecy cannot be used to refuse to provide information referred to in articles 11, 13, 14, 14.1, 15, 25, 26, and 37 or requested for purposes of an investigation into facts relating to trafficking in persons that has been ordered by the chief justice of the court of first instance or that is being carried out under the supervision of the investigating judge or government commissioner in the case.

CHAPTER XII: SPECIAL PROCEDURAL PROVISIONS

Article 35

In the event of a prosecution for one of the offenses referred to in articles 11, 13, 14, and 29 to 33, temporary release shall never be granted to the accused, according to article 95 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, when he or she is charged with a crime related to human trafficking.

35.1

Competent immigration and customs officers are authorized to search individuals, luggage, and vehicles at border controls when there are reasonable grounds to believe that such individuals are involved in human trafficking or transporting objects that can serve as clues for detecting cases of human trafficking.

35.2

National police officers are authorized to search individuals anywhere else within the national territory only on orders from the chief justice of the court of first instance, upon the decision of an investigating judge, or at the request of the public prosecutor or the competent justice of the peace.

35.3

Individuals shall be searched by a person of their own gender.

TITLE IV: INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION: EXTRATERRITORIALITY, EXTRADITION, AND MUTUAL LEGAL ASSISTANCE

CHAPTER XIII: PRELIMINARY PROVISIONS

Article 36

The Republic of Haiti shall work with foreign states for purposes of extradition, cooperation, and mutual technical assistance in information exchange, investigation, and prosecution for the offenses referred to in the present law.

Article 37

Haitian embassies, consulates, and consular offices overseas shall provide support for Haitian victims of trafficking in persons and shall, in cooperation, through authorized diplomatic channels, with the competent services within the Ministry of the Interior and Local Authorities, assist expeditious and timely issuance of identity papers and travel documents to such Haitian nationals who are victims of trafficking in persons.

CHAPTER XIV: REQUESTS FOR MUTUAL LEGAL ASSISTANCE

Article 38

Upon request by a foreign state, mutual legal assistance in connection with offenses stipulated in articles 11, 13, 14, 14.1, 23, 24, and 29 of the present law shall be extended in accordance with the principles set out in this chapter.

38.1

Requests for mutual legal assistance received from a foreign state shall be processed by the Ministry of Justice and Public Security as the central authority for mutual assistance. The central authority is responsible for answering requests for mutual assistance, complying with such requests or, if necessary, transmitting them to the authorities competent to do so.

38.2

The central authority of each state shall communicate directly with the others.

38.3

Mutual legal assistance may include, in particular

- a. Taking evidence or statements from witnesses;
- b. Assisting in making detained persons, voluntary witnesses, or others available to the judicial authorities of the requesting state in order to give evidence or assist in investigations;
- c. Serving court documents;
- d. Executing searches and seizures;
- e. Examining objects and sites;
- f. Providing information and evidentiary items; and
- g. Providing originals or certified copies of relevant documents and records, including bank, financial, corporate, or business records.

Article 39

A request for mutual legal assistance may be refused only if

- a. It was not made by a competent authority according to the legislation of the requesting country, or if it was not transmitted in accordance with applicable laws;
- b. Its execution is likely to prejudice the public order, the sovereignty, the security, or other essential interests of Haitian law;
- c. The offense to which it relates is the subject of criminal proceedings or has already been the subject of a final judgment;
- d. Under the Haitian legislation, the measures requested, or any other measures having similar effects, are not permitted by Haitian law or if they may not be used with respect to the offense referred to in the request;
- e. The decision rendered abroad was issued under conditions that did not afford sufficient protections with respect to the rights of the defendant;
- f. There are substantial grounds to believe that the measures or order being sought are directed at the person in question solely on account of that person's race, religion, nationality, ethnic origin, political opinions, gender, or status;
- g. The request is politically motivated; or
- h. The importance of the case to which the requests relates does not justify taking the action sought or the execution of the decision rendered abroad.

Article 40

Bank secrecy cannot be invoked as grounds for refusal to comply with a request for mutual legal assistance.

The public prosecutor may appeal a refusal of the request for mutual legal assistance within 10 clear days after the issuance of this decision by the court.

The Haitian government shall promptly inform the foreign competent authority of the grounds for refusal to execute the request.

Article 41

Investigative measures in relation to requests for mutual legal assistance shall be undertaken in conformity with Haitian law.

A judge or public official authorized by the competent foreign authority may attend the execution of the measures depending on whether these are carried out by a Haitian judge or public official.

Where the court is asked by a foreign competent authority to issue protective measures, it shall order the requested measures in accordance with the legislation in force. If the request is worded in general terms, the court shall order the most appropriate measures provided by law.

Where the court receives a request for the execution of protective measures issued abroad, it may substitute those measures provided for in the law whose effects correspond most closely to the requested measures.

Article 42

In the case of a request for mutual legal assistance seeking a confiscation order, the court shall give its decision by means of a letter of request, by referral to prosecuting authorities. The confiscation order shall apply to an item of property that is the proceeds of an offense or has been used to commit this offense, and that exists in Haitian territory, or shall consist of the obligation to pay a sum of money that corresponds to the value of such property.

Article 43

Where the court receives a request for the enforcement of a confiscation order issued abroad, it shall be bound by the findings of fact on which the order is based and shall reject the request only on grounds mentioned in article 44 of the present law.

43.1

The Haitian state shall have power to dispose of property confiscated on its territory at the request of foreign authorities unless otherwise provided by an agreement concluded with the requesting state.

CHAPTER XV: EXTRATERRITORIALITY AND EXTRADITION

Article 44

Requests to extradite wanted persons in a proceeding in a foreign state and to enforce a foreign sentence for an offense of trafficking in persons shall be executed in accordance with the procedures and principles set forth in the extradition treaties in force between the requesting state and the Haitian state. In the absence of an extradition treaty or arrangements between the requesting state and the requested state, the provisions of the present law on mutual legal assistance and extradition shall apply.

Article 45

Extradition shall be carried out only if the offense giving rise to the request for extradition or a similar offense is provided for under the legislation of the requesting state.

Article 46

Extradition shall be not granted if

- a. The offense for which it is requested is regarded by the Republic of Haiti as a political offense or if the request is politically motivated;
- b. The request is considered to have been made for the purpose of prosecuting or punishing a person on account of race, religion, nationality, ethnic origin, political opinions, gender, or status, or if the person's situation could be prejudiced for one of these reasons;
- c. A final judgment was delivered by Haitian courts for the offense for which extradition is sought;
- d. The person whose extradition is requested can no longer, under the legislation of either country, be prosecuted or punished, as a consequence of the statute of limitations for the offense or an amnesty or any other measure of clemency; or
- e. The person whose extradition is requested has been or likely would be subjected in the requesting state to torture and cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment or if that person has not received the minimum guarantees stipulated in article 14 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights; and if the person whose extradition is sought could face the death penalty.

Article 47

Extradition may be refused if

- a. The offense in respect of which it is requested is being prosecuted in Haiti;
- b. The person whose extradition is requested was tried or is liable to be tried or sentenced in the requesting state by an ad hoc court or tribunal;
- c. The Haitian authorities, while also taking into account the nature of the offense and the interests of the requesting state, consider that, in the circumstances of the case, extradition of the person in question would be incompatible with humanitarian considerations in view of age, health, or other personal circumstances making that person particularly vulnerable; or
- d. The offense in respect of which it is requested is regarded by Haitian legislation as having been committed wholly or partly within its territory.

Article 48

If the Haitian authorities refuse extradition on one of the grounds referred to in articles 52.3 and 52.4, they shall submit the case, if the requesting state so requests, to its competent authorities, in order that proceedings may be instituted against the person concerned for the offense that gave rise to the request for extradition.

Article 49

Within the limits authorized under national legislation and without prejudice to the rights of third parties, all assets and property of foreign nationals found in the territory of Haiti that have been acquired as a result of the offense committed or that may be required as evidence shall be surrendered to the requesting state if extradition is granted.

49.1

The property so surrendered shall be returned to Haiti without customs fees following the completion of proceedings, unless an agreement with the requesting state requires otherwise, and without prejudice to the rights of third parties.

49.2

Real property shall be confiscated and forfeited to the Haitian state in accordance with the conditions set forth in article 41. The proceeds from the sale of such property shall be administered as required by article 7.

CHAPTER XVI: PROVISIONS COMMON TO REQUESTS FOR MUTUAL LEGAL ASSISTANCE AND REQUESTS FOR EXTRADITION

Article 50

Requests submitted by the competent foreign authorities for establishing the facts on human trafficking, in order to enforce or order protective measures or a confiscation, or for the purpose of extradition, shall be transmitted through diplomatic channels.

In urgent cases, such requests may be sent through the International Criminal Police Organization (ICPO/Interpol).

50.1

Requests from foreign countries and their annexes shall be accompanied by a translation in French or Creole, certified by a sworn translator and regarded as an authentic reference document.

Article 51

Requests shall be submitted in writing, specifying

- a. The identity of the authority requesting the measure;
- b. The requested authority;
- c. The purpose of the request and any relevant contextual remarks or notices;
- d. The facts in support of the request;
- e. Any known details that may facilitate identification of the persons concerned, in particular marital status, nationality, address, and occupation; and
- f. The text of the statutory provision establishing the offense or, where applicable, a statement of the law applicable to the offense and an indication of the penalty that can be imposed for the offense.

51.1

In addition, requests for protective measures and for the issuance of a confiscation order shall include the following particulars:

- a. A description of the measures sought.
- b. A certified copy of the order, and a statement of the grounds permitting judicial authorities to pronounce the decision.

- c. A document certifying that the order is binding and not subject to ordinary means of appeal.
- d. An indication of the timeframe within which the order must be enforced and, where applicable, the sum to be recovered from the property.
- e. Where necessary and if possible, any information concerning third-party rights of claim on the instrumentalities, proceeds, property, or other things in question.

51.2

Requests for extradition, if applicable, shall include the original or a certified copy of the judgment or any other document establishing the conviction of the person concerned and the sentence imposed.

51.3

The minister of Justice and Public Security, after the request submitted has been checked and found in order, shall send it to the office of the public prosecutor of the place where the investigations are to be conducted, or the place where facilities or property cited are located, or the place where the person(s) whose extradition is requested are located.

51.4

The public prosecutor shall refer the matter to the competent court concerning the requests for protective measures, confiscations, and extradition.

Article 52

The minister of Justice and Public Security, at the request of the public prosecutor or the court in which the matter is brought, may ask the competent foreign authority, through diplomatic channels or directly, to supply any additional information needed to execute or facilitate the execution of the request.

52.1

The public prosecutor may delay referral to the police authorities, the judge, or the court only if the requested measures or decision could impact negatively on criminal investigations and prosecutions. The public prosecutor shall immediately inform the requesting authority of this fact, through diplomatic channels or directly.

Article 53. Confidentiality and limitation on use with regard to proceedings

The requesting party may request that the requested party keep confidential the fact of any request made under this chapter as well as its subject, except to the extent necessary for its execution. If the competent authority of the requested party cannot comply with the request for confidentiality, it shall promptly inform the requesting party, which shall then determine whether the request should nevertheless be executed.

When the requesting state asks for the existence and content of its request to be kept confidential, it shall be granted, except to the extent required to give effect to it. If that is impossible, the requesting authorities shall be immediately informed thereof.

The Haitian government may make the supply of information or material in response to a request dependent on the condition that

- a. The information and material be kept confidential when the request for mutual legal assistance cannot be complied with in the absence of such condition; and

- b. They are not used for investigations or proceedings other than those stated in the request.

TITLE V: GENERAL, IMPLEMENTING, INTERPRETATIVE, AND FINAL PROVISIONS
