

CRIMINAL CODE

(“Official Gazette of the Republic of Montenegro ” no. 70/2003, and Correction, no. 13/2004)

GENERAL PART

CHAPTER ONE

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Basis and scope of criminal law compulsion

Article 1

Protection of a human being and other basic social values makes the basis and scope for defining criminal acts, prescribing criminal sanctions and their enforcement to a degree necessary for repression of these offences.

Legality in determination of criminal offences and prescription of criminal sanctions

Article 2

A punishment or other criminal sanction can be imposed only for an act which was defined by the law as a criminal offence before it was committed and for which a sanction was prescribed by law.

No punishment without guilt

Article 3

A punishment and measures of warning can be imposed only to an offender who is guilty of a committed criminal offence.

Criminal sanctions and their general purpose

Article 4

(1) Criminal sanctions are: punishments, warning measures, security measures and educational measures.

(2) General purpose of prescription and imposition of criminal sanctions is repression of the acts which violate and jeopardize the values protected by criminal legislation.

CHAPTER TWO

CRIMINAL OFFENCE

1. General provisions on criminal offence

Criminal offence

Article 5

Criminal offence is a socially dangerous act that the law prescribes as a criminal offence, which is unlawful and which has been committed with guilty mind.

Manner of commission of a criminal offence

Article 6

(1) Criminal offence can be committed by an act or an omission..

(2) Criminal offence is committed by omission if an offender has failed to do what he was obliged to do.

(3) Criminal offence can also be done by omission even if the law does not define it as omission if a perpetrator has satisfied elements of criminal offence by failing to do what he was obliged to do.

Time of perpetration of criminal offence

Article 7

(1) Criminal offence is committed at the time when a perpetrator was acting or was obliged to act, irrespective of when the consequence of that act occurred.

(2) For an accomplice it is considered that he committed a criminal offence at a time when he acted or was obliged to act.

Place of perpetration of criminal offence

Article 8

(1) Criminal offence is committed at the place in which a perpetrator thereof acted or was obliged to act or where whole or partial consequence of the act thereof occurred, while in case of an attempted offence it will also be at place where the consequence of an attempted act in her/his opinion should or could have taken place.

(2) For an accomplice it shall be considered that s/he committed an offence at the place where s/he acted.

An offence of minor significance

Article 9

(1) An offence which represents an offence of minor significance although it has elements of a criminal offence is not a criminal offence.

(2) A criminal offence is an offence of minor significance if the nature and the gravity of the offence, circumstances under which it was done, the motives out of which it was done, degree of offender's guilt, absence or insignificance of harmful effects and other circumstances indicate to the minor significance of the offence thereof.

(3) The provisions of Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article cannot be applied on criminal offences for which punishment of imprisonment for more than three years is prescribed.

Self-defense

Article 10

(1) An act committed in self-defense is not considered a criminal offence.

(2) Self-defense is such defense which is absolutely necessary for a perpetrator in order to avert from his/her good or someone else's good concurrent or immediate unlawful attack.

(3) An offender who has exceeded the limits of necessary self-defense can be punished by a reduced penalty and if s/he has exceeded limit due to strong excitement or fear caused by an assault s/he can also be freed from sanction.

Extreme necessity

Article 11

(1) An act committed in extreme necessity shall not be considered a criminal offence.

(2) Extreme necessity exists when an act is committed in order that the offender avert from his/her good or someone else's good concurrent or imminent danger s/he did not caused which could not have been averted in any other way, provided that the evil created thereby does not exceed the one which was threatening.

(3) If an offender negligently created the danger him/herself, or if s/he exceeded the limits of extreme necessity, s/he can be punished by a reduced penalty, and if s/he exceeded the limits under particularly mitigating circumstances s/he can be acquitted of a punishment at all.

(4) There is no extreme necessity if an offender was under an obligation to expose her/himself to the threatening danger.

Force and threat

Article 12

(1) An act which has been done under the influence of absolute force shall not be considered a criminal offence.

(2) If an act has been committed in order that an offender averts from him/herself or from someone else a danger that was caused by a force which is not absolute or under threat, the provisions of Article 11 of the present Code shall be applied to the offender accordingly, considering the force and threat as a danger which s/he did not cause.

(3) If a criminal offence has been committed under force or threat and the conditions of Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article are not met, an offender thereof can be punished by a reduced penalty and if the offence was committed under particularly mitigating circumstances, s/he can be acquitted of any punishment.

(4) In cases referred to in Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article if a person who has been under force or threat is not considered a perpetrator of that criminal act, then the person who has inflicted the force and threat thereof shall be considered a perpetrator.

Guilt

Article 13

(1) An offender is considered guilty if s/he has committed a criminal act in mental capacity and with intent.

(2) An offender is guilty for a criminal act committed negligently only when it was ordered by law.

Mental capacity

Article 14

(1) An offender who at the moment of committing a unlawful act prescribed according the law as a criminal offence could not understand the importance of his/her act or could not control his/her actions due to mental illness, temporary mental disorder, mental retardation or other severe mental disorder (mental incapacity) shall be considered a mentally incapable person.

(2) An offender whose ability to understand the importance of his/her act or ability to control his/her actions was substantially diminished due to any of the conditions stipulated in Paragraph 1 of this Article (substantially diminished mental capacity) can get a reduced punishment.

(3) A guilt of a criminal offender who by consumption of alcohol, drugs or in any other way brought him/herself into a state in which s/he could not understand the significance of his/her acts or could not control his /her actions shall be determined according to the time before s/he brought him/herself in that condition.

(4) An offender who under circumstances referred to in Paragraph 3 of this Article has committed a criminal offence in the state of substantially reduced mental competence cannot get a reduced sentence on the basis of that.

Intent / intentional fault

Article 15

A criminal offence has been committed with intent if the offender was aware of his/her act and wanted it to be committed; or when the offender was aware that s/he could commit an act thereof and s/he consented to it.

Negligence

Article 16

A criminal offence has been committed by negligence if an offender was aware that by his/her action s/he could commit an offence but s/he has carelessly assumed that it would not occur or that s/he would be able to prevent it; or when s/he was not aware of the possibility that by his/her act s/he could commit an offence although, under the circumstances in which the act thereof was committed, and in his/her personal capacity s/he was obliged and could have been aware of that possibility.

Liability for a graver consequence

Article 17

When a graver consequence has resulted from a criminal offence due to which a more severe punishment is envisaged by law, this more severe punishment may be imposed if the consequence is attributable to the offender's negligence, as well as to his intent if by that an offender has not made elements of some other criminal offence.

Mistake of fact

Article 18

(1) A person is not criminally responsible if at the time of committing a criminal offence s/he was not aware of statutory element in it, or if s/he mistakenly believed that circumstances existed which, had they really existed, would have rendered such a conduct permissible.

(2) If the offender's mistake was due to his/her negligence, s/he shall be criminally liable for a criminal offence by negligence, insofar as the offence thereof is determined by law.

Mistake of law

Article 19

Any offender who could not know and was not obliged to know that his/her act is prohibited shall not be held criminally responsible.

2. Attempted criminal offence and voluntary abandonment

Attempt

Article 20

(1) Anyone who with intent commences commitment of a criminal offence, but does not finish it, shall be punished for attempted criminal offence which the law prescribes as punishable with imprisonment of five years or more, whereas other attempted criminal offences shall be punishable solely when explicitly prescribed so by law. (2) Use of certain tool or application of certain manner of commitment shall also be considered as a commenced criminal offence if the law defines them as elements of criminal offence.

(3) An offender shall be sanctioned for an attempted offence by punishment prescribed for criminal offence thereof, but s/he can also be punished by a reduced penalty.

Inappropriate attempt

Article 21

An offender who attempts committing a criminal offence with inappropriate tool or against an inappropriate object can be acquitted of any punishment.

Voluntary abandonment

Article 22

(1) An offender who has attempted to commit a criminal offence, but has voluntarily desisted its completion can be acquitted of a punishment.

(2) In case of voluntary desisting, the offender shall be punished for those actions which constitute another independent criminal act which is not comprised in the criminal offence the offender desisted from committing.

3. Complicity in criminal offence

Co-perpetration

Article 23

If several persons jointly commit a criminal offence by jointly taking part in criminal conduct or in other way, each of them shall be punished as prescribed for the offence in question.

Incitement

Article 24

(1) Anyone who with intent incites another to commit a criminal offence will be punished as if s/he has committed it by himself/herself.

(2) Anyone who with intent incites another to commit a criminal offence which is punishable by law with prison sentence of five years or more shall be punished for an attempted criminal offence even if the offence has not been attempted at all.

Aiding

Article 25

(1) Anyone who with intent aids another person in the commission of a criminal offence shall be punished as if s/he has committed it, but a reduced punishment can also be pronounced.

(2) The following, in particular, shall be considered as aiding in the commission of a criminal offence: giving instructions or counseling about how to commit a criminal offence, supply of means for committing a criminal offence, creation of conditions or removal of obstacles for committing a criminal offence as well as the promise given prior to the commission of the offender to conceal the criminal offence, offender, means for committing the criminal offence, the traces of criminal offence and the proceeds gained through the commission of the criminal offence.

The limits of responsibility and punishability of accomplices

Article 26

(1) A co-perpetrator is criminally liable within the limits of his/her intent or negligence, and inciter and aide within the limits of their intent.

(2) A co-perpetrator, inciter or an aide who has voluntarily prevented the commission of a criminal offence can be acquitted of any punishment.

(3) Personal relations, characteristics and circumstances on the basis of which the law excludes criminal culpability or allows acquittal of punishment and on which the existence of privileged or graver mode of an offence depend or which is of influence in meting out the sentence can be taken into consideration only for the perpetrator, co-perpetrator, inciter or aide with whom such relations, characteristics and circumstances exist.

Punishment for inciters and aides for an attempt and minor criminal offence

Article 27

(1) If a criminal offence remained in attempt the inciter and aide shall be punished for an attempt.

(2) If an offender has committed a lesser criminal offence than the one for which s/he has been incited or aided, and which would have been comprised in it, the inciter and aide thereof shall be punished for the criminal offence which has been committed.

(3) The provision of Paragraph 2 of this Article shall not be applied if the inciter thereof would have been punished more severe by applying the provision of Article 24, Paragraph 2, of the present Code.

4. Special provisions regarding criminal liability for criminal offences committed through the public information media

Criminal liability of an editor-in-chief

Article 28

(1) For criminal offences committed through the public information media criminal liability is assigned to an editor-in-chief or a person who replaced him/her at the time when the information was published:

1. if the author remains unknown until the end of the hearing before a first instance court;
2. if the information was published without the author's consent;
3. if at the time when the information was published the factual or legal impediments for prosecution of the author existed and which still lasts.

(2) An editor-in-chief or a person who is replacing him/her shall not be held liable if out of justifiable reasons s/he did not know about some of the circumstances referred to in Items 1-3, Paragraph 1 of this Article.

Criminal liability of a publisher, type-setter and manufacturer

Article 29

(1) If the conditions set forth in Article 28 of the present Code exist, the following persons shall be held criminally liable:

- 1) a publisher – for a criminal offence committed through regular press publications and, if an editor-in-chief does not exist or there are actual or legal obstacles for his/her prosecution, the type-setter who had the knowledge of it.
- 2) a manufacturer – for the criminal offence committed through compact disc, phonograph record, magnetic tape and other audio means, film for public or private display, slides, videos or other similar means of communication intended for wider audience.

(2) If a publisher, type-setter or manufacturer is a legal person or a state authority, the person in charge of publishing, type-setting or manufacturing shall be held criminally liable.

Application of provisions defined in Articles 28 and 29

Article 30

The provisions on criminal liability of the persons defined in Articles 28 and 29 of the present Code shall be applied only provided that these persons cannot be considered perpetrators of criminal offence by general provisions of this Code.

Criminal liability of legal persons

Article 31

(1) Liability of legal persons for criminal offences, as well as sanctions to be applied thereto shall be envisaged by law.

(2) Criminal offences for which a legal person can be held criminally liable shall be prescribed by law, as well.

CHAPTER THREE

PUNISHMENTS

1. Purpose of punishment, types of punishment, conditions for their imposition

Purpose of punishment

Article 32

The purpose of punishment within the framework of the general purpose of criminal sanctions (Article 4, Paragraph 2) is:

- 1) Prevention of an offender from committing criminal offenses and provision of rehabilitative influence so that s/he does not commit criminal offenses thereafter;
- 2) Influence on others not to commit criminal offenses;
- 3) Expression of social condemnation for a criminal offence and of an obligation of respect to law;
- 4) Providing moral strength and influence on the development of social responsibility.

Types of punishment

Article 33

The following punishments can be imposed on the perpetrators of criminal offences:

- 1) a thirty-year imprisonment
- 2) an imprisonment
- 3) a fine
- 4) a community service

Principal and accessory punishments

Article 34

(1) A thirty-year imprisonment, imprisonment and community service can be pronounced only as principal punishments.

(2) A fine can be imposed both as a principal and as an accessory punishment.

(3) If for a criminal offence several punishments are prescribed, only one of these can be pronounced as the principal punishment.

Thirty-year imprisonment

Article 35

(1) A thirty-year imprisonment can be prescribed for the most serious criminal offences, provided that it cannot be prescribed as the only punishment for a certain criminal offence.

(2) A thirty-year imprisonment sentence cannot be pronounced:

- 1) to a person who was under 21 at the time of commission of a criminal offence;
- 2) to a person who had significantly reduced mental capacity (Article 14, Paragraph 2) at the time of commission of a criminal offence.
- 3) for an attempted criminal offence.

Imprisonment

Article 36

(1) An imprisonment sentence can not be shorter than thirty days nor longer than twenty years.

(2) The imprisonment sentence referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article shall always be pronounced in full years and months, and those ones shorter than six months, in months and days.

Release on parole

Article 37

(1) A convicted person who has served half of the prison sentence or of the thirty-year imprisonment sentence can be released on parole if in the course of serving the prison sentence thereof s/he has improved so that it is reasonable to expect that s/he will behave well while at liberty and, particularly that s/he will refrain from committing criminal offences until the end of time the prison sentence had been imposed. At the assessment on whether to release a person on parole his/her conduct during the period of serving the sentence, performance of work tasks appropriated to his/her working abilities, as well as other circumstances indicating that the purpose of punishment has been achieved shall be taken into consideration.

(2) In the case referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article, if the parole is not revoked, the convicted person shall be considered to have served the sentence.

Revocation of parole

Article 38

(1) The court shall revoke parole if a convicted person commits one or more criminal offences while on parole, for which imprisonment sentence of more than a year is pronounced.

(2) The court can revoke parole if a person on parole commits one or more criminal offences for which imprisonment sentence of less than one year is pronounced. While determining whether to revoke the parole, the court shall particularly consider whether criminal offences are related, motives and other circumstances which thereby represent justification for revocation of parole.

(3) Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article shall be applied even if a person on probation is tried for a criminal offence that s/he committed before release on probation.

(4) When the court revokes parole it shall pronounce punishment by applying provisions of Articles 48 and 50, Paragraph 2, of the present Code and it shall consider previously pronounced sentence as the one already established. A part of the sentence the convicted person has already served according to previous conviction shall be counted in the new sentence, while the time spent on probation shall not be credited for.

(5) If a person on parole is sentenced to imprisonment of less than a year and the court does not revoke the parole, the parole shall be extended for the period of the imprisonment sentence which the convicted person has served.

(6) In the case referred to in Paragraphs 1 to 3 of this Article, a parole can be revoked at latest within two years of the date the parole expired.

Fine

Article 39

(1) A fine cannot amount to less than € 200. A fine can not amount to more than € 20.000, and for the criminal offences committed out of greed it can not exceed € 100.000.

(2) A fine pronounced as the principal punishment shall be pronounced in the following amounts:

- 1) up to € 2.000 for criminal offences punishable with imprisonment sentence of maximum 3 months;
- 2) from €400 to €4.000 for criminal offences punishable with imprisonment sentence of maximum 6 months;
- 3) from €600 to €8.000 for criminal offences punishable with imprisonment sentence of maximum one year;
- 4) from €800 to €16.000 for criminal offences punishable by imprisonment sentence of maximum 2 years;
- 5) at least €1.200 for criminal offences punishable with imprisonment sentence of maximum three years.
- 6) at least €1.200 for criminal offences for which a fine is envisaged by law as the sole punishment.

(3) For criminal offences committed out of greed the fine as an accessory punishment can be pronounced even if it is not prescribed by law, or when the law prescribes that the offender shall be punished by imprisonment sentence or fine and the court pronounces imprisonment as the principal sentence.

(4) If the court determines a fine as the principal punishment, and it also determines fine as an accessory punishment, it shall pronounce only one fine pursuant to the provisions of Article 48 of the present Code.

(5) The judgment shall determine payment time limit for a fine which can not be shorter than fifteen days nor longer than three months. In justified cases, the court can allow the convicted person to pay in instalments, provided that the payment deadline can not exceed one year.

(6) If a convicted person fails to pay a fine in the deadline set thereof, the court shall replace the fine with imprisonment sentence by converting each €40 of the fine into one day of imprisonment provided that the imprisonment sentence cannot last longer than six months, and if the fine pronounced exceeds the amount of €14.000, the imprisonment sentence can not be longer than one year.

(7) If a convicted person pays only one part of the fine, the court shall replace the remaining part by proportionally converting it into imprisonment sentence, and if a convicted person pays the remaining part of the fine, the execution of the imprisonment shall be discontinued.

(8) After the death of a convicted person the fine shall not be effectuated.

Fine in daily amounts

Article 40

(1) In the cases when revenues and expenditures of a perpetrator of a criminal offence can be determined, the court may pronounce a fine in daily amounts.

(2) The daily amount of a fine shall be determined on the basis of revenues and expenditures of a perpetrator of a criminal offence, provided that a portion of the fine that correspondes one day cannot be less than €10 or exceed the amount of €1.000.

(3) The number of daily amounts cannot be less than 10 or larger than 360 days. The number of daily amounts for a committed criminal offence shall be meted out on the basis of general rules applied to the meting out of penalties (Article 42).

(4) The final amount of a fine shall be determined by the court by multiplying the number of daily amounts meted out with the ascertained value of one daily amount.

(5) It is for the purpose of ascertaining the value of daily amounts that the court may request from banks and other financial institutions, state authorities and legal entities to make available the relevant data; they shall be obliged to present the data requested without referring to the protection of business or other secrets.

(6) Provisions of Article 39, Paragraphs 3 to 8 of the present Code shall also be applied when a fine is pronounced pursuant to the provisions of this Article.

Community service

Article 41

(1) Community service can be imposed for criminal offences punishable by a fine or imprisonment sentence of up to three years.

(2) Community service cannot last shorter than 40 hours nor longer than 240 hours and shall be pronounced for the period of time that cannot be shorter than thirty days nor longer than six months.

(3) This punishment shall be pronounced with the consent of a criminal offender and cannot be longer than forty hours during one month.

(4) Community service is to be deemed any socially useful work which does not offend human dignity and is not done for the purpose of gaining profit.

(5) When pronouncing this punishment, the court shall pay consideration to the type of criminal offence committed and to the character of an offender.

(6) If a criminal offender does not perform the community service, the present punishment will be replaced by imprisonment sentence, thus that each forty hours of community service shall be taken as one-month imprisonment sentence.

2. Meting out a punishment

General principles of meting out punishments

Article 42

(1) The court shall determine a punishment for a criminal offender within the limits envisaged by law for the criminal offence in question, having in mind the purpose of punishment and taking into account all circumstance that have bearing on magnitude of the punishment (mitigating and aggravating circumstances), and particularly the following: a degree of culpability, the motives from which the offence was committed, the intensity of danger or injury to the protected good, the circumstances in which the offence was committed, the past conduct of the offender, his/her personal situation, his/her behaviour after the commission of the criminal offence, particularly his attitude towards the victim of the criminal act and other circumstances related to the personality of the offender.

(2) In determining a fine the court will give particular consideration to the financial status of an offender, as well.

(3) The circumstance which is an element of a criminal offence cannot be also taken into consideration either as aggravating or mitigating circumstance, except if it exceeds the measure required for establishing the existence of the criminal offence thereof or certain form of pertaining criminal offence or if there are two or more such circumstances, only one being sufficient for the existence of aggravated or privileged type of criminal offence.

Repetition of an offence

Article 43

When meting out a punishment to an offender for a criminal offence which s/he has committed after sentence served, sentence forgiven or expired or acquitted after the deadline for revocation of probation or after court admonition has been pronounced, the court can take this circumstance as aggravating one and it will particularly assess the seriousness of a previously committed criminal offence, whether the former offence is of the same kind as the latest one, whether both offences were committed out of the same motives, circumstances in which the offences were committed and how much time has passed from the earlier conviction or pronounced, forgiven or expired sentence, from acquittal from punishment, from expiry of the deadline for revocation of earlier probation or from pronounced judicial admonition.

Multi-recidivism

Article 44

(1) For a criminal offence committed with intent for which imprisonment sentence is prescribed, the court can impose a more severe sentence than the prescribed one, under the following circumstances:

- 1) if an offender has already been sentenced to imprisonment two or more times for criminal offences with intent for a term at least one year and shows propensity toward committing criminal offence;
- 2) if a period of five years has not expired between the day when the offender was released after serving the previous sentence and the day when s/he committed the new criminal act.

(2) The more severe punishment must not exceed double the amount of the prescribed punishment and must not exceed the twenty years of imprisonment.

(3) When assessing whether to pronounce a more severe punishment than the prescribed one, the court shall give particular consideration to the number of earlier sentences, relatedness of committed criminal offences, motives out of which they were committed, circumstances under which the offences were made and the need to pronounce such sentence in the aim of attaining the purpose of punishment.

Reduction of punishment

Article 45

The court can impose to the perpetrator of criminal offence the penalty below the limit prescribed by law or more lenient type of punishment whenever:

- 1) the law prescribes that an offender's punishment can be reduced;
- 2) the law prescribes that an offender can be acquitted of sentence, whereas the court does not acquit him/her;
- 3) it is established that there are particularly mitigating circumstances and determines that the purpose of punishment is achievable with reduced punishment, as well.

Limits of reduction of punishment

Article 46

(1) If the conditions for reduction of the punishment referred to in Article 45 of the present Code were met, the court shall reduce the punishment within the following limits:

- 1) if the lowest prescribed punishment for the criminal offence is a prison sentence of minimum five years, the sentence can be reduced to the two-year imprisonment;
- 2) if the lowest prescribed punishment for the criminal offence is a prison sentence of minimum three years, the sentence can be reduced to the one-year imprisonment;
- 3) if the lowest prescribed punishment for the criminal offence is a prison sentence of two years, the sentence can be reduced to the six-month imprisonment;
- 4) if the lowest prescribed punishment for the criminal offence is a prison sentence of one year, the sentence can be reduced to the three-month imprisonment;
- 5) if the lowest prescribed punishment for the criminal offence is a prison sentence less than one year, the sentence can be reduced to the thirty-day imprisonment;
- 6) if the prescribed punishment for the criminal offence does not specify the minimum sentence, the prison sentence can be replaced by a fine;
- 7) if the prescribed punishment for the criminal offence is the fine with prescribed minimum amount, the fine can be reduced to the amount of €600.

(2) When the court is authorized to acquit an offender of any punishment, it can reduce his/her punishment without limitations prescribed for reduction of punishment.

Acquittal of punishment

Article 47

(1) The court can acquit a criminal offender of punishment only when so explicitly prescribed by law.

(2) The court can also acquit of the punishment the criminal offender who has committed an offence out of negligence if the consequences of that offence affect the offender so strongly that the pronouncement of sentence in that case would obviously not serve the purpose of punishment.

(3) The court can also acquit of punishment the offender who committed a criminal offence punishable by the maximum imprisonment of five years, if s/he removes the effects of the offence or compensates the damage caused by the criminal offence thereof after s/he committed criminal offence and before s/he learned that he was detected.

Concurrence of criminal offences

Article 48

(1) If an offender by one action or several actions has committed several criminal offences for which s/he is tried at the same time, the court shall first assess the punishment for these offences respectively and then pronounce a single sentence.

(2) The court shall pronounce a single sentence in line with the following rules:

- 1) if a 30-year imprisonment penalty has been determined by the court for one of the criminal offences in concurrence, it shall pronounce that punishment only;
- 2) if the court has determined imprisonment for criminal offences in concurrence, it shall increase the most severe punishment determined provided that the cumulative punishment does not reach the sum of determined punishments nor exceed twenty years of imprisonment;
- 3) if prison sentences of maximum three years are prescribed for all criminal offences in concurrence, the cumulative punishment must not exceed ten years of imprisonment;
- 4) if for criminal offences in concurrence only fines are determined, the court shall pronounce one fine in the amount of the sum of determined fines, but it must not exceed the amount of €20.000 or €100.000 when one or more criminal offences have been committed out of greed;
- 5) if for some criminal offences in concurrence the penalties of imprisonment are determined and for other offences the fines are determined, the court shall pronounce one penalty of imprisonment and one fine pursuant to the provisions of Items 2-4 of this Paragraph.

(3) The court shall pronounce the fine as an accessory punishment if it has been prescribed for at least one of the criminal offences in concurrence, and if the court has determined more than one fine it shall pronounce one fine pursuant to the provisions of Paragraph 2, Item 4 of this Article.

(4) If the court determined penalties of imprisonment and juvenile imprisonment for concurrent criminal offences, it shall pronounce penalty of imprisonment as the single punishment by applying the rules referred to in Paragraph 2, Item 2 of this Article.

Article 49

(1) Continued criminal offence comprises several same or criminal offences of the kind committed in temporal continuity by the same offender and they represent a whole per se due to the existence of at least two of the following circumstances: the same injured party, the same object of an offence, use of the same situation or the same permanent relationship, the same places or spaces on which the offence was committed or the single intent of the perpetrator.

(2) The criminal offences against a person can represent a continued criminal offence only provided that they were committed against the same person.

(3) Those offences that by their nature do not allow to be combined in one offence can not represent a continued criminal offence.

(4) If a continued criminal offence comprises less and more serious forms of the same offence, the most serious form out of the committed offences shall be considered the continued criminal offence.

Meting out the punishment for a convicted person

Article 50

(1) If a convicted person is tried for a criminal offence committed before s/he starts serving prison sentence for earlier conviction, or for a criminal offence committed in the course of serving prison sentence or juvenile imprisonment, the court shall pronounce a single sentence for all criminal offences by applying the provisions of Article 48 of the present Code, taking into account the sentence pronounced earlier as an already determined punishment. The sentence or a part of the sentence the convicted person has already served shall be credited to the pronounced sentence of imprisonment.

(2) For criminal offence committed in the course of serving the prison sentence or juvenile custody, the court shall pronounce a sentence to the offender regardless of previously pronounced sentence if by application of the provisions of Article 48 of the present Code and taking into account the seriousness of the criminal offence thereof, and the rest of the earlier sentence, the purpose of the punishment can not be achieved.

(3) A convict who in the course of serving the prison sentence or juvenile custody commits a criminal offence for which the law prescribes a fine or prison sentence of maximum one year shall be punished disciplinary.

Credit of detention and earlier sentence

Article 51

(1) The time spent in detention, as well as any other deprivation of liberty in relation to a criminal offence shall be credited to the pronounced penalty of imprisonment, juvenile imprisonment and a fine.

(2) If a criminal procedure has been conducted for several concurrent criminal offences and the detention has not been ordered for each of them, the time spent in detention shall be credited to the pronounced prison sentence, juvenile custody and a fine for a criminal offence the offender has been convicted for.

(3) Prison sentence or a fine which the offender has served/paid for a misdemeanour or economic offence, as well as sentence or disciplinary measure of deprivation of liberty which the offender has served for violation of military discipline shall be credited to the sentence pronounced for a criminal offence whose characteristics encompass also the characteristics of a misdemeanour, economic offence or violation of military discipline.

(4) For each crediting, one day spent in detention, deprivation of liberty, juvenile prison, a day in prison and the amount of €40 shall be deemed equal.

CHAPTER FOUR

WARNING MEASURES

1. Suspended sentence and judicial admonition

Purpose of a suspended sentence and judicial admonition

Article 52

(1) Warning measures are: suspended sentence and judicial admonition.

(2) Within the general purpose of criminal sanctions (Article 4, Paragraph 2), the purpose of a suspended sentence and judicial admonition is that a sentence for lesser criminal offences is not imposed on the offender once when it is not necessary for the purpose of criminal justice protection and when it is expected that an admonition with the threat of punishment (suspended sentence) or an admonition alone (judicial admonition) will influence the offender enough to deter him/her from committing criminal offences.

Suspended sentence

Article 53

(1) When imposing a suspended sentence, the court determines a punishment to a criminal offender and at the same time it orders that it shall not be carried out provided the convicted person does not commit another criminal offence for a period of time determined by the court, which can not be shorter than one year nor longer than five years (testing period).

(2) By a suspended sentence, the court can order that the sentence shall be carried out even if a convicted person fails to restore the material gain acquired through the commission of the criminal offence, compensate for the damage s/he caused by commission of the criminal offence or fails to meet other obligations prescribed in criminal law regulations. The timeframe for meeting these obligations defines the court within the specified testing period.

(3) Security measures ordered alongside a suspended sentence shall be enforced.

Conditions for pronouncing a suspended sentence

Article 54

(1) A suspended sentence can be pronounced when the maximum penalty of two years imprisonment has been determined to the offender.

(2) For criminal offences punishable by prison sentence of ten years or a more severe punishment a suspended sentence can not be pronounced.

(3) A suspended sentence can not be pronounced unless more than five years have elapsed from the day when the offender's sentence punishing him/her for an intentional criminal offence became irrevocable.

(4) When determining whether to pronounce a suspended sentence the court shall, taking into account the purpose of the suspended sentence, pay a particular attention to the personality of the offender, his/her earlier conduct, his/her conduct after the commission of the criminal offence, degree of criminal liability and other circumstances under which the offence has been committed.

(5) If the imprisonment and the fine both were determined to the offender, a suspended sentence can be pronounced only for the prison sentence.

Revocation of a suspended sentence due to a new criminal offence

Article 55

(1) The court shall revoke a suspended sentence if a convicted person during the test period commits one or more criminal offences for which the sentence of imprisonment of two years or more is pronounced.

(2) If a convicted person during the testing period commits one or more criminal offences for which the sentence of less than two years in prison or a fine has been pronounced, the court shall decide whether to revoke a suspended sentence after it assesses all circumstances referring to the committed offences and offender him/herself, and particularly relatedness of committed offences, their importance and motives from which they were committed. The court shall thereby be limited by the ban on pronouncing a suspended sentence if the offender should be sentenced to more than two years in prison for criminal offences determined in the suspended sentence and for new criminal offences (Article 54, Paragraph 1).

(3) If the court revokes a suspended sentence, it shall pronounce a single prison sentence by applying the provisions of Article 48 of the present Code for both previously committed and for new criminal offence by taking the sentence from revoked suspended sentence as a sentence already determined.

(4) If the court does not revoke a suspended sentence, it can pronounce a suspended sentence or a penalty for a new criminal offence. A convicted person who gets prison sentence for a new criminal offence shall not have that period served in prison credited to the testing period determined by the suspended sentence for a previous offence.

(5) If the court decides that a suspended sentence should be pronounced for a new criminal offence as well, it shall by applying the provisions of Article 48 of the present Code determine a single sentence for both an earlier committed offence and for a new criminal offence and shall specify a new testing period which can not be shorter than one nor longer than five years counting from the day when the new judgment becomes final. If the convicted person in the course of the new testing period commits a criminal offence, the court shall revoke the suspended sentence and pronounce an imprisonment penalty by applying the of Paragraph 3 of this Article.

Revocation of a suspended sentence due to a previously committed criminal offence

Article 56

(1) The court shall revoke a suspended sentence if, after its pronouncement, the court establishes that the convicted person committed a criminal offence prior to the imposition of a suspended sentence and if the court finds that there would have been no grounds for the imposition of a suspended sentence had the existence of that offence been known. In such a case, provision of Article 55, Paragraph 3 shall be applied.

(2) If the court does not revoke a suspended sentence, provision of Article 55, Paragraph 4 of the present Code shall be applied.

Revocation of a suspended sentence due to the failure to meet particular obligations

Article 57

If a suspended sentence prescribes a convicted person to meet some obligations set forth in Article 53, Paragraph 2 of the present Code, and s/he fails to meet that obligation within the deadline set forth in the judgment, the court can within the testing period extend the deadline for meeting the obligation or it can revoke the suspended sentence thereof and pronounce the punishment set forth in the suspended sentence. If the court establishes that the convicted person cannot meet the obligation out of justified reasons, the court shall relieve him/her of meeting that obligation or replace it by other obligation envisaged by law.

Time-limit for revocation of a suspended sentence

Article 58

(1) A suspended sentence can be revoked during the testing period. If in this period a convicted person commits a criminal offence which entails a revocation of a suspended sentence, whereas it is determined by the judgment to start only after the expiry of the testing time, the suspended sentence can be revoked at latest within a year from the day when the testing period has expired.

(2) If a convicted person fails to meet an obligation referred to in Article 53, Paragraph 2 of the present Code within the specified determined time limit, the court can order that the punishment set forth by the suspended sentence be enforced, within the term of one year from expiring of testing period.

Suspended sentence under protective supervision

Article 59

(1) The court can order that the offender who has been subject to a suspended sentence be placed under protective supervision for particular period during the testing period.

(2) A protective supervision encompasses measures of assistance, care, supervision and protection prescribed by law.

(3) If the court establishes that in the course of protective supervision the purpose of this measure has been achieved, it can terminate the protective supervision before expiration of the specified time period.

(4) If a convicted person who has been placed under protective supervision fails to comply with the obligations which the court ordered to him/her, the court can warn him/her or replace the earlier obligations with other obligations or extend the protective supervision within the specified testing period or revoke the suspended sentence.

Conditions for determining the protective supervision

Article 60

(1) When the court pronounces a suspended sentence it can order that an offender be placed under protective supervision if on the basis of his/her personality, former conduct, conduct after commission of the criminal offence, particularly his attitude to victim of the criminal offence and circumstances of commission of the criminal offence, it could be expected that the protective supervision will better serve the purpose of the suspended sentence.

(2) Protective supervision shall be ordered by the court in the judgment by which it pronounces the suspended sentence and determines the measures of protective supervision, their duration and manner for their implementation.

The contents of protective supervision

Article 61

Protective supervision can comprise one or more of the following obligations:

- 1) reporting to a competent authority in charge of execution of protective supervision within the time limits specified by that authority;
- 2) training of the offender for a particular profession;
- 3) accepting a job appropriate to the abilities and affinities of the offender;
- 4) fulfillment of the obligation to support family, care and bringing up of children and performing other family obligations;
- 5) refraining from visiting certain places, bars or events if that can be a chance or incentive for commission of a criminal offence again;
- 6) timely reporting the change of residence, address or job;
- 7) refraining from drug and alcohol consumption;
- 8) medical treatment in an appropriate medical institution;
- 9) visiting particular professional and other counseling wards or institutions and following their instructions;
- 10) eliminating or mitigating the damage caused by the criminal offence in question, particularly reconciliation with the injured party.

Selection of measures of protective supervision

Article 62

When selecting the obligations set forth in Article 61 of the present Code, the court shall particularly take into account the age of an offender, his/her health condition, affinities and habits, motives from which s/he committed a criminal offence, conduct after s/he committed criminal offence, earlier conduct, personal and family situation, ability to meet the ordered obligations as well as other circumstances relevant for pertinent to the personality of the offender and those that bear relevance to the selection of the measures for protective supervision and their duration.

Duration of protective supervision

Article 63

(1) The duration of the measures of protective supervision shall be determined within the testing period specified by the suspended sentence.

(2) Protective supervision shall be terminated by revocation of a suspended sentence.

(3) During the period of protective supervision the court may, depending on the results achieved, order certain obligations to be cancelled or replaced with other obligations.

(4) If the court finds that in the course of protective supervision the purpose of this measure has been achieved, the protective supervision can be terminated before expiration of the specified time period.

Consequences of failure to meet the obligations pertaining to protective supervision

Article 64

If a convicted person to whom a protective supervision has been pronounced fails to meet the obligations that the court has ordered, the court can warn him/her or it can replace previous obligations with other obligations or extend the protective supervision within the framework of the testing period or revoke the suspended sentence.

Judicial admonition

Article 65

(1) Judicial admonition can be pronounced for criminal offences for which the prison sentence or a fine are prescribed and which have been committed under such extenuating circumstances that they render them particularly minor.

(2) For certain criminal offences and under conditions prescribed by law, a court admonition can be pronounced even in cases for which a penalty of imprisonment is prescribed not exceeding three years.

(3) Judicial admonition can be pronounced by the court for several criminal offences committed in concurrence, provided that the conditions referred to in Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article have been established for each of these criminal offences.

(4) When deciding whether to pronounce a judicial admonition, the court shall, taking into account the purpose of the admonition, particularly consider the personality of the offender, her/his past conduct, her/his conduct after the commission of the criminal offence, specifically her/his relationship towards the injured party, as well as the degree of criminal liability and other circumstances under which the offence thereof has been committed.

(5) A judicial admonition cannot be pronounced to a military person for criminal offences against the Army of Serbia and Montenegro .

CHAPTER FIVE

SECURITY MEASURES

Purpose of security measures

Article 66

Within the general purpose of criminal sanctions (Article 4, Paragraph 2), the purpose of security measures is to eliminate the situations or conditions which might influence an offender to commit criminal offences in future.

Types of security measures

Article 67

The following security measures can be imposed on persons who have committed a criminal offence:

- 1) mandatory psychiatric treatment and custody in a medical institution;
- 2) mandatory psychiatric treatment at liberty;
- 3) mandatory medical treatment of a drug addict;
- 4) mandatory medical treatment of an alcoholic;
- 5) prohibition from practising a profession, activity or duty;
- 6) prohibition of driving a motor vehicle
- 7) confiscation of objects;
- 8) expulsion of a foreigner from the country;
- 9) publishing of a judgment.

Pronouncement of security measures

Article 68

- (1) The court can pronounce one or more security measures against a criminal offender provided that grounds exist for their pronouncement envisaged by the present Code.
- (2) Mandatory psychiatric treatment and custody in a medical institution and mandatory psychiatric treatment at liberty shall be pronounced as an individual sanction to a mentally incompetent criminal offender. Besides these measures, the court can also order a prohibition from practising a certain profession, activity or duty, prohibition of driving a motor vehicle and confiscation of objects.
- (3) The measures set forth in Paragraph 2 of this Article can be pronounced to a criminal offender whose mental capacity has been substantially impaired if a sentence or suspended sentence has already been pronounced to her/him.
- (4) Mandatory medical treatment of a drug addict, mandatory medical treatment of an alcoholic, prohibition from practising a certain profession, activity or duty, prohibition of driving a motor vehicle, confiscation of objects and publishing of a judgment can be pronounced if the sentence, suspended sentence or judicial admonition has already been pronounced or the criminal offender has been acquitted.
- (5) Expulsion of a foreigner from the country can be pronounced if a sentence or suspended sentence has been pronounced to a criminal offender.
- (6) A security measure shall be imposed for criminal offences in concurrence if the court determines it for at least one of the concurrent criminal offences.

Mandatory psychiatric treatment and custody in a medical institution

Article 69

- (1) The court shall pronounce mandatory psychiatric treatment and custody in a medical institution to a criminal offender who has committed a criminal offence in the state of substantially impaired mental capacity if it ascertains that in relation to the committed offence and the state of mental disturbance there is a serious danger that the offender thereof can commit a more serious criminal offence and that it is necessary to order her/his medical treatment in such an institution for the sake of eliminating the danger thereof.
- (2) If the conditions set forth in Paragraph 1 of this Article are met, the court shall order a mandatory treatment and custody in such an institution to an offender who has committed an unlawful act that the law defines as a criminal offence in the state of mental incompetence.
- (3) The court shall suspend the measure set forth in Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article once it ascertains that the need for treatment and custody of the offender in a medical institution has ceased.
- (4) The measure set forth in Paragraph 1 of this Article that is pronounced alongside with the prison sentence can last longer than the pronounced sentence.
- (5) The time the perpetrator who has committed a criminal offence in the state of substantially impaired mental capacity and who has been sentenced to prison has spent in a medical institution shall be credited to the service of the pronounced sentence. If the period spent in a medical institution is shorter than the duration of the pronounced prison sentence, the court shall order that the convicted person is forwarded to serving the remaining prison sentence or release her/him on parole once the security measure is terminated. When deciding about the release on parole, the court shall particularly give consideration to how successful the convict's treatment was, her/his health condition, the time spent in a medical institution and the remaining sentence that the offender has not served, in addition to the conditions set forth in Article 37 of the present Code.

Mandatory psychiatric treatment at liberty

Article 70

- (1) The court shall pronounce mandatory psychiatric treatment at liberty to an offender who has committed an unlawful act that is prescribed by law as a criminal offence in the state of mental incapacity if it ascertains that there is a serious danger that the offender will commit the such act again and that, for the sake of eliminating this danger, her/his treatment outside prison would suffice.
- (2) The measure set forth in Paragraph 1 of this Article can be pronounced also to a mentally incapable offender on whom a mandatory psychiatric treatment and custody in a medical institution have been imposed when the court on the basis of the results of the treatment ascertains that there is no need any more for her/his custody and treatment in that institute, but that her/his treatment at liberty would suffice.
- (3) On conditions set forth in Paragraph 1 of this Article, the court can also pronounce mandatory psychiatric treatment at liberty to an offender whose mental capacity is substantially impaired if s/he has received a suspended sentence or released on probation pursuant to Article 69, Paragraph 5 of the present Code.

(4) Mandatory psychiatric treatment at liberty can be done in a certain medical institution from time to time if this is necessary for a successful treatment thereof, but the periodical treatment in a medical institution cannot last for more than fifteen days in one chunk, nor longer than two months altogether.

(5) Mandatory psychiatric treatment at liberty shall last as long as there is a need for a treatment, but not longer than three years.

(6) If in the case referred to in Paragraphs 1 to 3 of this Article the offender does not take treatment at liberty, or terminates it at her/his own will, or if despite treatment thereof the danger arises that s/he will commit again an unlawful act envisaged by law as a criminal offence that may render her/his treatment and custody in a relevant medical institution necessary, the court can pronounce mandatory psychiatric treatment and custody in such an institution.

Mandatory medical treatment of a drug addict

Article 71

(1) The court shall pronounce a mandatory treatment to an offender who has committed a criminal offence because of addiction to narcotic drugs and if there is a serious danger that s/he might continue committing criminal offences due to this addiction.

(2) The measure set forth in Paragraph 1 of this Article shall be carried out in a penitentiary institution or in an appropriate medical or other specialized institution and shall last for as long as there is a need for treatment, but not longer than three years.

(3) When the measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article is pronounced alongside the imprisonment sentence, it can last longer than the pronounced sentence but its total duration cannot be more than three years.

(4) The time spent in the institution for medical treatment shall be credited to the prison sentence.

(5) If a measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article is pronounced alongside a fine, a suspended sentence, judicial admonition or acquittal of sentence, it shall be carried out at liberty and cannot last for more than three years.

(6) If an offender without justified reasons does not take a treatment at liberty or leaves the treatment at his/her will, the court shall order the compulsory enforcement of the measure in an appropriate medical or other specialized institution.

Mandatory medical treatment of an alcoholic

Article 72

(1) The court shall pronounce a mandatory medical treatment to an offender who has committed a criminal offence because of addiction of alcohol consumption and if there is a serious danger that s/he might continue committing criminal offences due to this addiction. (2) The measure set forth in Paragraph 1 of this Article shall be carried out in a penitentiary institution or in an appropriate medical or other specialized institution and shall last for as long as there is a need for treatment, but not longer than the pronounced prison sentence.

(3) The time spent in an institution for medical treatment shall be credited against the prison sentence.

(4) If a measure set forth in paragraph 1 of this article is pronounced alongside a fine, suspended sentence, judicial admonition or acquittal of sentence, it shall be carried out at liberty and cannot last for more than two years.

(5) If an offender does not take a treatment at liberty or leaves the treatment at her/his will without justified reasons, the court shall order the compulsory enforcement of the measure thereof in an appropriate medical or other specialized institution.

Prohibition from practicing a certain profession, activity or duty

Article 73

(1) The court can prohibit a criminal offender from practicing a certain profession, activity, all or some of duties related to the disposition, utilization, management or handling of someone else's property or taking care of that property, if it is reasonably believed that her/his further exercise of that duty would be dangerous.

(2) The court shall determine the duration of the measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article and it can not be shorter than one nor longer than ten years counting from the day when the judgment thereof has become final, provided that the time spent in a prison or in medical institution in which the security measure has been delivered shall not be credited to the term of this measure.

(3) When imposing a suspended sentence, the court can decide that the sentence shall be revoked if the offender violates the prohibition thereof from practicing a certain profession, activity or duty.

Prohibition of driving a motor vehicle

Article 74

- (1) The court can pronounce a prohibition of driving a motor vehicle to a person who has committed a criminal act which has endangered traffic safety.
- (2) When pronouncing the measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article, the court shall determine to which type and category of vehicles the prohibition thereof refers to.
- (3) The measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article can be pronounced by the court if it ascertains that the gravity of the committed offence, the circumstances under which the offence was committed or previous violations of traffic regulations by the offender indicate that it is dangerous to let this person drive motor vehicle of a certain type or category.
- (4) The court shall determine the duration of the measure set forth in Paragraph 1 of this Article which can not be shorter than three months nor longer than five years counting from the day when the judgment has become final provided that the time served in prison or in an institution in which the security or corrective measure is carried out shall not be credited to the term of this measure.
- (5) If the measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article is pronounced to a person who holds a foreign driver's license for a motor vehicle, the prohibition shall refer to driving a motor vehicle in the territory of Montenegro .
- (6) If the court pronounces a suspended sentence, it can determine that the sentence shall be revoked if an offender violates the prohibition of driving a motor vehicle.
- (7) A mandatory prohibition of driving a motor vehicle can be prescribed by law.

Confiscation of objects

Article 75

- (1) The objects which were used or intended for use in the commission of a criminal offence or which resulted from the commission of a criminal offence can be confiscated if they are property of the offender.
- (2) The objects referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article can be confiscated even if they are not the property of the offender if so required by the interests of general safety or if necessitated by the reasons of moral, provided however the rights of third persons to the compensation of damages by the offender shall not be encroached.
- (3) The law can stipulate a mandatory confiscation of objects. The law can also stipulate the conditions for confiscation of certain objects in specific cases.

Expulsion of a foreigner from the country

Article 76

- (1) The court can order that a foreigner who has committed a criminal offence be expelled from the territory of Montenegro for the period ranging from one to ten years or for good if s/he has committed a repeated criminal offense (Article 43).
- (2) When assessing whether to pronounce the measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article, the court shall take into consideration the time and gravity of a committed offence, motives from which the criminal offence has been committed, manner in which it was committed as well as other circumstances that indicate to the ineligibility of the foreigner's further stay in Montenegro.
- (3) The period of expulsion commences on the day of coming into effect of the decision thereof, provided the time spent in prison shall not be credited to the term of this measure.
- (4) The measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article shall not be pronounced against an offender who enjoys protection pursuant to the ratified international treaties.

Publishing of the judgment

Article 77

- (1) When pronouncing a sentence for criminal offences committed by means of public media the court can decide to publish the judgment either fully or in brief through the media and at the offender's expense.
- (2) Mandatory publishing of the judgment can be prescribed by law. In that case the court shall decide through which public information medium the judgment in question shall be publicized and whether it shall be publicized either fully or in brief.
- (3) Publicizing of the judgment can be done at latest within 30 days of the day the decision thereof has become effective.

Termination of security measures on the basis of a court decision

Article 78

(1) The court can pass a decision by which it shall terminate the security measures of prohibition of practicing professions, activity or duty and prohibition of driving a motor vehicle if three years have lapsed from the day of enforcement of the measures thereof.

(2) When assessing whether to order termination of the security measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article, the court shall take into consideration the conduct of the convicted person after the pronouncement of the conviction, whether the offender has compensated for the damage caused by the criminal offence, whether s/he has returned material gain obtained through the commission of the criminal offence as well as other circumstances that indicate to the righteousness of cessation of the measures thereof.

CHAPTER SIX

PROVISIONS ON JUVENILES

1. Basic provisions

Applicability of special criminal-law provisions to juveniles

Article 79

(1) The provisions contained in this Chapter shall be applied to juvenile criminal offenders and other provisions of the present Code shall be applied unless otherwise prescribed in this Chapter.

(2) The special provisions that are applicable to juvenile criminal offenders shall be applied on conditions envisaged by the provisions of this Chapter to adults as well, if they are tried for the criminal offence they had committed when they were minors and, exceptionally, if they had committed the offence as young adults.

Exemption of children from criminal sanctions

Article 80

Criminal sanctions can not be applied to a juvenile who at the time of the commission of a criminal offence was under the age of 14 fourteen years (a child).

Criminal sanctions against minors

Article 81

(1) A juvenile who at the time of commission of the criminal offence had reached the age of 14 but not the age of 16 (a young juvenile) can be punished by educational measures only. (1) To a juvenile who at the time of commission of a criminal offence had attained fourteen years of age but had not reached sixteen years of age (a junior juvenile) only educational measures may be imposed.

(2) A juvenile who at the time of commission of the criminal offence had reached the age of 16 but not the age of 18 (a senior juvenile) can be punished by educational measures, but exceptionally, s/he can be sentenced to a juvenile custody. (2) To a juvenile who at the time of commission of a criminal offence had attained sixteen years of age but had not yet reached eighteen years of age (a senior juvenile) educational measures may be imposed, and exceptionally a punishment of juvenile imprisonment may be imposed.

(3) A juvenile can also be punished by security measures on conditions set forth in Article 109 of the present Code. (3) Security measures may be imposed on a juvenile under the conditions set forth in Article 109 of this Code.

(4) A judicial admonition or a suspended sentence can not be imposed on a juvenile.

(5) A suspended sentence and a judicial admonition may not be imposed on a juvenile.

Purpose of educational measures and juvenile imprisonment

Article 82

In the framework of general purpose of criminal sanctions (Article 4, Paragraph 2), the purpose of educational measures and juvenile imprisonment is to ensure that by providing protection and help to juvenile criminal offenders by extending supervision over them, professional training and development of personal responsibility they provide for their education, rehabilitation and proper development. The purpose of a juvenile custody is also to exercise increased influence on juvenile offenders in order to prevent them from committing criminal offences as well as on other juveniles against committing criminal offences.

2. Educational measures

Types of educational measures

Article 83

The following educational measures can be imposed to a juvenile criminal offender:

- 1) disciplinary measures: a reprimand and committal to a reformatory educational center for juveniles;
- 2) measures of intensive supervision: intensive supervision by parents, adoptive parents or a tutor; intensive supervision by tutelary authority and intensive supervision with daily stay in an appropriate institution for reformatory juvenile education;
- 3) institutional measures: committal to an educational institution; committal to an educational – correctional home as well as to a special institution for medical treatment and professional training.

Selection of an educational measure

Article 84

When selecting an educational measure, the court shall take into consideration the age, degree of mental development, mental characteristics, tendency and degree of juvenile's educational neglect, the motives for which s/he has committed an offence, former conduct, the environment and situation in which s/he has lived, the gravity of the offence, whether an educational measure or a sentence had been pronounced to the juvenile before as well as all other circumstances which might influence the pronouncement of the measure that shall best meet the purpose of educational measures.

Pronouncement of educational measures

Article 85

- (1) Disciplinary measures shall be imposed to a juvenile who need not be submitted to extended education reformatory measures and, particularly, if s/he has committed a criminal offence out of recklessness or frivolous behavior.
- (2) Measures of intensive supervision shall be imposed to a juvenile if it appears necessary to submit him/her to extended measures of education, rehabilitation or treatment with adequate supervision but where it is not necessary to completely detach her/him from the old environment.
- (3) Institutional measures shall be imposed to a juvenile when it appears necessary to submit her/him to extended measures of education, rehabilitation or medical treatment but also of her/his detachment from the old environment and if the court finds that the purpose of educational measures cannot be achieved by applying the measures referred to in Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article. Pursuant to the provisions of the present Code, the institutional educational measures shall last only until the purpose set forth in Article 82 of the present Code is achieved.

Reprimand

Article 86

- (1) A reprimand is imposed if it is deemed sufficient to reprimand a juvenile for a committed criminal offence.
- (2) When pronouncing a reprimand, the court shall warn the juvenile about the wrongness of her/his act and shall inform her/him about possibility to pronounce a more severe sanction if s/he commits a criminal offence again.

Committal to a reformatory educational center for juveniles

Article 87

- (1) The court shall impose the educational measure of committal to a reformatory educational center for juveniles, if it is necessary to influence her/his personality and conduct through appropriate short-term measures.
- (2) The court shall commit a juvenile who gets a measure set forth in Paragraph 1 of this Article to a reformatory educational center for two hours twice a week, within the period of eight to twelve weeks.
- (3) When pronouncing this measure consideration shall be given to the need that the juvenile thereof is not absent from school or job due to the execution of this measure.
- (4) When the court had pronounced the submission to a reformatory educational center for juveniles, it can order that a juvenile is submitted to the intensive supervision by a tutelary authority upon execution of this measure.

Intensive supervision by parent, adoptive parent or tutor

Article 88

(1) Measure of intensive supervision by parents, adoptive parents or a tutor shall be imposed by the court if parents, adoptive parents or a tutor are capable to perform such a supervision and that it can reasonably be expected of them.

(2) This measure can last from six months to two years and the court can decide later on its termination in a successive procedure.

(3) If the court pronounces the measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article it shall give parents, adoptive parents and a custodian all necessary instructions and order them certain duties which they need to undertake for the purpose of reformative education, medical treatment and removal of detrimental influence on him/her.

(4) When the court pronounces the measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article it shall determine that the tutelary authority shall supervise its execution and provide assistance to parents, adoptive parents or a tutor.

Intensive supervision by a tutelary authority

Article 89

(1) If a parent, adoptive parent or a tutor is incapable of exercising the intensive supervision, a juvenile shall be placed under the supervision of a tutelary authority.

(2) This measure lasts from six months to two years and the court shall in due course decide on its termination.

(3) In the course of this measure a juvenile still lives with her/his parents or other persons who maintain her/him or in whose custody the juvenile is and intensive supervision over her/him is done by an official of the tutelary authority or some other professional appointed by the tutelary authority.

(4) A tutelary authority shall look after the juvenile's education, employment, and detachment from the environment that has a detrimental influence on her/him, necessary medical treatment and putting his living circumstances in order.

Intensive supervision with daily stay in an institution for reformative juvenile education

Article 90

(1) An educational measure of increased supervision with daily stay in an institution for reformative juvenile education can be imposed alongside with increased supervision by parents, adoptive parents or a tutor or alongside with increased supervision by a tutelary authority when an engagement of professionals in an institution for reformatory juvenile education is necessary.

(2) This measure, apart from increased supervision by parents, adoptive parents or a tutor and increased supervision by the tutelary authority also contains an obligation of a daily stay of juveniles in a relevant institution in charge of reformative juvenile education.

(3) This measure lasts from six months to two years and the court shall in due course decide on its termination.

(4) In the course of this measure a juvenile still lives with his/her parents or other persons who maintain him/her or in whose custody the juvenile is, and increased supervision over him/her is by the decision of the court assigned to parents, adoptive parents or a tutor or a tutelary authority.

(5) The tutelary authority shall supervise the execution of this measure.

Special obligations alongside intensive supervision

Article 91

(1) When imposing some of educational measures of intensive supervision, the court can determine one or more of the following obligations for a juvenile, if so needed for a successful accomplishment of the purpose of the pronounced measure:

1) to apologize to an injured person;

2) to remove the damage caused by the committed criminal offence within his/her abilities;

3) to attend school regularly or to go to work regularly;

4) to take a professional training course that is appropriate for his capability and inclination;

5) to refrain from alcohol and drug consumption or to submit to an appropriate medical treatment;

6) to visit an appropriate medical institution or a counselling ward and to follow the guidelines received from the institution thereof;

7) to stay in some other family which is willing to take him/her and which is capable of administering supervision over him/her;

(2) Parents, adoptive parents or a tutor of a juvenile to whom one or more obligations referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article are assigned, shall be obliged to inform the tutelary authority in timely manner about the change of or longer absence from the permanent or temporary residence.

(3) The obligations set forth in Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article shall not exceed the period to which educational measure thereof has been pronounced but the court can replace or revoke the obligations it has ordered.

(4) When ordering the obligations set forth in Paragraph 1 of this Article, the court shall particularly inform the juvenile and his/her parents, adoptive parents or a tutor that in case of failure to meet the obligations thereof the pronounced measure of intensive supervision can be replaced with some other educational measure.

Committal to an educational institution

Article 92

(1) The court shall impose the measure of committal to an educational institution when it is necessary to provide a permanent supervision by professionals for a juvenile.

(2) A juvenile stays in an educational institution for six months at least and two years at most and the court shall, in the course of that measure, decide on its termination.

Committal to an educational - correctional home

Article 93

(1) The court shall impose a measure of committal to an educational - correctional home for juvenile offenders to a juvenile offender over whom it is necessary to administer intensive measures of reformatory education.

(2) When deciding whether to impose the measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article, the court shall particularly take into consideration the degree of educational neglect of a juvenile, gravity and nature of a committed criminal offence and whether any educational measure or juvenile prison sentence has been pronounced to the juvenile before.

(3) A juvenile stays for at least one and at longest four years in an educational correctional home and the court shall, in the course of that measure, decide on its termination.

Release on parole from an educational - correctional home

Article 94

(1) The court can order a release on parole to a juvenile who has stayed in an educational - correctional home for at least one year if, on the basis of success achieved on his/her correctional and reformatory education, it can be reasonably expected that s/he will not commit criminal offences in future and that s/he will behave well in his/her environment.

(2) The court shall decide whether to administer some of the measures of intensive supervision over a juvenile during the parole.

(3) Conditional release shall last at latest to the expiration of statutory period of submission to an educational correctional institution unless the court has revoked the enforcement of this measure or replaced it with other measure.

(4) If in the course of parole a juvenile commits a criminal offence or fails to comply with the obligations pronounced to him/her alongside the measure of increased supervision, the court can revoke a parole. The time spent on parole shall not be credited to the term of the pronounced educational measure.

Committal to a specialized institution for medical treatment and rehabilitation

Article 95

(1) The court can impose a measure of committal to a specialized institution for medical treatment and rehabilitation instead of committal to a reformatory an educational institution or an educational - correctional home to a juvenile with psycho-physical retardation or mental illness.

(2) The measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article shall be imposed instead of the measure of mandatory psychiatric treatment and custody in a medical institution if medical treatment and custody can be provided in an institution for medical treatment and rehabilitation and if thereby the purpose of this security measure can be achieved.

(3) If the measure referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article has been imposed instead of submission to an educational institution or to a educational - correctional home, the juvenile shall stay in a specialized institution for medical treatment and rehabilitation for maximum three years. If this measure has been pronounced instead of security measure, the juvenile shall stay for as long as it is necessary, and when s/he reaches the age of twenty three years, the execution of this sentence shall be resumed in an institution that administers security measures of compulsory psychiatric medical treatment and custody (a psychiatric institution).

(4) When a juvenile reaches the age of eighteen years, the court shall be obliged to examine the need of his/her further stay in that institution.

Discontinuation of execution and replacement of pronounced educational measure by other educational measure

Article 96

(1) If after the decision is passed on pronouncing a measure of intensive supervision or an institutional measure, the circumstances arise that were not existent or known at the time when it was passed, or if the decision cannot be executed because the juvenile or his/her parents, adoptive parents or a tutor fail to comply with the order of the authority in charge of enforcing the measure thereof or if some other circumstances prescribed by law arise that might influence passing of the decision, the execution of the measure thereof can be suspended or the measure thereof can be replaced by other measure of intensive supervision or institutional measure.

(2) With the exception of cases referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article, the measure of intensive supervision or an institutional measure can be discontinued or replaced with other measure that will better serve the purpose of educational measure, depending on the results achieved in reforming behaviour, unless otherwise provided for a particular measure. In relation to the institutional measures, the discontinuation of execution or replacement with other measure shall be made within the following limitations:

1) measure of committal to an educational institution cannot be discontinued in execution before expiration of the period of six months, whereas it can be replaced prior to expiration of the period thereof by submission of a juvenile to an educational correction institution or to a special institution for medical treatment and rehabilitation;

2) measure of committal to a reformatory - educational home cannot be discontinued in execution before expiration of the period of one year, whereas it can be replaced prior to expiration of the period thereof by submission of a juvenile to an educational institution or to a special institution for medical treatment and rehabilitation.

Reconsideration of educational measures

Article 97

(1) If more than two years have elapsed of coming into effect of the decision pronounced by which is the measure of intensive supervision or an institutional measure whereas the execution thereof has not started yet, the court shall decide again about the need of enforcing the imposed measure. In doing that, the court can decide that a previously imposed measure be or be not enforced or replaced by other measure.

(2) The measure of committal to a reformatory educational centre for juveniles shall not be executed if more than six months have elapsed of coming into effect of the decision pronounced by which is the measure thereof, whereas its enforcement has not started yet.

Pronouncement of educational measures for criminal offences in concurrence

Article 98

(1) If a juvenile has committed several offences in concurrence the court shall, assessing all of these offences, pronounce one single educational measure.

(2) The court shall also proceed in the manner referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article if after pronouncement of an educational measure it ascertains that the juvenile has, prior or after its pronouncement, has committed other criminal offence.

Disclosure of data pertaining to pronounced educational measures

Article 99

(1) Data on pronounced educational measures can be disclosed solely to the court, the state prosecutor, custodian authorities and institutions in charge of juveniles' protection and only if the offender has not reached the age of twenty one..

(2) Data on pronounced educational measures shall be disclosed to the authorities referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article after the offender's age of twenty one. if related to criminal offences for which a penalty of imprisonment over five years is envisaged.

3. Juvenile imprisonment

Punishment of elder juveniles

Article 100

Sentenced may be solely an elder juvenile who has committed a criminal offence for which a penalty of imprisonment exceeding five years is prescribed by law, if due to a high degree of the offender's guilt and gravity of his/her criminal offence the pronouncement of any educational correctional measure would be unjustified.

Juvenile imprisonment

Article 101

(1) Juvenile imprisonment shall not be less than six months or exceed eight years. Exceptionally, for offences prescribed for which as a mildest penalty measure is a prison penalty of ten years, juvenile imprisonment up to ten years may be pronounced.

(2) Penalty of juvenile imprisonment shall be pronounced in full years and months.

(3) Elder juveniles shall serve their penalty of imprisonment in specialized educational correctional institutions for juveniles in which they shall be allowed to stay by the age of twenty three years. Should it happen that their serving of the penalty be not completed by that time, they shall be sent to a correctional institution/penitentiary intended for adults who serve their prison penalty. Exceptionally, a person shall be allowed to stay in an educational correctional institution for juveniles after having reached the age of twenty three years, if indispensable for the continuation of his/her education or professional training, but not after he has reached the age of twenty five years.

Release on parole from juvenile imprisonment

Article 102

(1) A person imposed on whom is the penalty of juvenile imprisonment may be released on parole by a court of law from serving the penalty of juvenile imprisonment, if s/he served one third of the pronounced sentence, but not less than one year, and if it can be reasonably expected, based on the success achieved in correcting his/her conduct, that such a person shall behave correctly while at large and shall restrain from perpetrating criminal offences in future. The court of law may, along with the parole, pass also the measure of an intensive supervision.

(2) For revocation of the parole, provisions of Article 38 of the present Code shall be applied accordingly.

Meting out the penalty of juvenile imprisonment

Article 103

(1) A court of law shall mete out the penalty of juveniles imprisonment within the statutory limits envisaged for such a penalty, taking into consideration the very purpose of the juvenile imprisonment, as well as all circumstances that may make the penalty more or less severe and particularly the degree of a juvenile's mental development and the time needed for his/her education, reforming and professional training.

(2) A court of law may not pronounce the penalty of juvenile imprisonment for a specific criminal offence for a period of time in excess of the statutory prison penalty prescribed for such an offence, but it shall not be bound by the least prescribed measure of such a sentence.

Meting out the penalty of juvenile imprisonment for criminal offences in concurrence

Article 104

(1) Should an elder juvenile commit several criminal offences in concurrence, and the court determine that at least for one of these offences the penalty of juvenile imprisonment is to be imposed, the court of law shall determine single sentence for all these offences within the limits prescribed by provisions of Article 100 of the present Code.

(2) Should it be determined by a court of law that an elder juvenile has to be punished for one of these offences, while for other criminal offences he is to be delivered educational measures, the court shall pronounce for all offences in concurrence solely the penalty of juvenile imprisonment.

(3) A court of law shall also proceed in the manner referred to in Paragraphs 1 or 2 of this Article should it be ascertained after the pronounced sentence that the sentenced offender has committed another criminal offence, prior or after the pronouncement thereof..

Bar to execution of the punishment of the juvenile imprisonment by lapse of time

Article 105

The penalty of juvenile imprisonment cannot be executed in the event of expiration of:

- 1) ten years from the juveniles' imprisonment sentence exceeding five years;
- 2) five years from the juveniles' imprisonment sentence exceeding three years;
- 3) three years from the juveniles' imprisonment sentence not exceeding three years.

Cessation of educational measures due to the pronouncement of a juvenile imprisonment

Article 106

Should a court of law, during the term of an educational measure, impose on an elder juvenile the penalty of juvenile imprisonment, the educational measure shall cease upon the commencement of serving the penalty of imprisonment.

Effect of the penalty on educational measures

Article 107

Should a court of law, during the term of an educational measure, impose on a adult a penalty of juvenile imprisonment (Article 110, Paragraph 3) or a penalty of imprisonment (Article 110, Paragraph 4) in duration of at least one year, the educational measure shall cease when the person in question commences to serve his penalty of imprisonment; if a prison penalty of shorter duration is pronounced, the court shall decide by its judgment whether the educational measure shall be continued upon completion of the imprisonment penalty or it shall be cancelled.

Effect of educational measures and of juvenile imprisonment

Article 108

(1) Educational measures and juvenile imprisonment shall not produce any legal consequences consisting in the prohibition of acquiring specific rights.

(2) Persons imposed on whom is a measure of placement in an educational correctional institution or a penalty of juvenile imprisonment shall not be allowed to perform, during the term of the educational measure i.e. juvenile imprisonment penalty, certain duties or functions in the state authorities, local self-government bodies, enterprises and other organizations that in the conduct of their business activities use the state property i.e. organizations assigned to which by law are specific public powers.

Imposing of security measures to juveniles

Article 109

(1) Security measures, with the exception of prohibition from practicing a profession, business activities and duties, can be pronounced to juveniles, should an educational measure or juvenile imprisonment be imposed on them.

(2) Security measures of mandatory medical treatment of drug addicts and obligatory treatment of alcoholics, shall not be pronounced along with disciplinary educational measures.

(3) Security measures of obligatory psychiatric treatment and custody in a health institution, as well as obligatory psychiatric treatment at freedom shall be pronounced independently.

4. Applicability of provisions related to juveniles on adults

Imposing of criminal sanctions to adults for offences they have perpetrated as juveniles

Article 110

(1) An adult who has reached the age of twenty one year cannot be tried for a criminal offence committed by him/her as a junior juvenile.

(2) An adult who at the time of a trial has not reached the age of twenty one year, can be tried for criminal offences committed by him/her as a junior juvenile, solely if for that criminal offence the penalty of imprisonment is prescribed exceeding five years. The court may impose on such a person solely a measure of an intensive supervision by a tutelary authority or a relevant educational measure in the competent institution. When assessing which of these measures to pronounce, a court of law shall take into consideration all relevant circumstances of the case, specifically the gravity of the committed offence, the time elapsed from its perpetration, the conduct of the offender, as well as the purpose of this educational measure.

(3) On an adult who committed a criminal offence as an elder juvenile, solely the measure of an intensive supervision by a tutelary authority or a relevant educational measure in the competent institution can be imposed, on conditions referred to in Article 100. When assessing which of these measures to pronounce, a court of law shall take into consideration all relevant circumstances of the case, specifically the seriousness of the committed offence, the time elapsed from its perpetration, the conduct of the offender, as well as the purpose expected to be achieved by these sanctions.

(4) Exceptionally to the provision of Paragraph 3 of this Article, a court may impose on an adult who at the time of a trial has reached the age of twenty one year, a prison penalty instead of juvenile imprisonment, duration of which shall be determined within the limits set forth by provisions of Articles 101 and 104 of the present Code. The prison penalty pronounced in this case shall have, as regards rehabilitation and legal consequences, the same legal effect as the penalty of juvenile imprisonment.

Imposing of educational measures to young adults

Article 111

(1) The court may impose a measure of an intensive supervision by a tutelary authority or a measure of placement in an educational correctional institution to an offender who committed a criminal offence as an adult but at the time of a trial did not reach the age of 21, if it is to be expected, taking into consideration his personality and circumstances under which the offence was committed, that these correctional measures shall help to achieve the same purpose as if a penalty were imposed.

(2) The court may, on conditions envisaged by the present Code, impose on a young adult pronounced to whom is an educational measure, all security measures with the exception of prohibition from practicing a profession, business activities and duties.

CHAPTER SEVEN

SEIZURE OF MATERIAL GAIN

Ground for seizure of material gain

Article 112

(1) No one shall be allowed to retain any material gain obtained by a criminal offence.

(2) The gain referred to in Paragraph 1 of this Article shall be seized on conditions envisaged by the present Code, by a judicial decision ascertained by which is perpetration of a criminal offence.

Conditions and manner of seizure of material gain

Article 113

(1) Money, things of value and all other property gains obtained by a criminal offence shall be seized from the offender; should such a seizure be not possible, the perpetrator shall be obliged to pay for the monetary value of the obtained property gain.

(2) A material gain obtained by a criminal offence shall also be seized from the persons it has been transferred to without compensation or against compensation that is obviously inadequate of its real value.

(3) Seized shall also be any property obtained by a criminal offence in favour of other persons.

Protection of injured party

Article 114

(1) Should, in the course of a criminal procedure, a property claim of the injured party be approved, the court shall decide on the seizure of a material gain solely if such a property gain exceeds the property claim of the injured party adjudicated in that amount.

(2) The injured party who, in the course of a criminal procedure, has been referred to institute a civil action in respect to any kind of property claims, may ask to be compensated from the property gain, should s/he institute civil action within the period of six months of the day of coming into effect of the decision on his/her referral to the civil action and should he/she, within the period of three months of coming into effect of the decision approved by which is his/her property claim, ask to be compensated from the seized material gain.

(3) The injured party who, within a criminal procedure, has failed to lodge a property claim, may request to be compensated from the seized property should, for the purpose of his/her claim, s/he institute a civil action within three months of the day of coming to the knowledge of the sentence pronounced by which is seizure of a material gain, and at latest within the period of three years of the day of coming into effect of the decision on seizure of a material gain and should s/he, within the period of three months of the day of coming into effect of the decision on approval of his/her property claim, ask to be compensated out of the seized material gain.

CHAPTER EIGHT

LEGAL CONSEQUENCES OF CONVICTION

Occurrence of legal consequences of conviction

Article 115

- (1) Conviction for certain criminal offences or to imposition of certain punishments may have as a legal consequence the cessation i.e. forfeiture of specific rights or prohibition to acquire certain rights.
- (2) Legal consequences of conviction may not appear when a fine has been imposed on the offender for a criminal offence or a suspended sentence, should it not be repealed, or a judicial admonition, or when the offender has been remitted of punishment.
- (3) Legal consequences of a sentence can be envisaged solely by law and shall come into effect by force of law.

Types of legal consequences of conviction

Article 116

- (1) Legal consequences of conviction related to the cessation or forfeiture of specific rights are the following:
 - 1) cessation of public functions,
 - 2) cessation of a job or practicing a profession or occupation,
 - 3) loss of certain permits or licenses issued by the decision of a state authority or a local self-government body.
- (2) Legal consequences of conviction related to the prohibition of acquisition of specific rights are:
 - 1) prohibition of obtainment of certain public functions;
 - 2) prohibition of obtainment of a specific title, profession or occupation, or promotion in service;
 - 3) prohibition to be awarded a rank of a military officer;
 - 4) prohibition of obtainment of certain permits or licenses issued by a decision of state authorities or local self-government bodies.

Commencement and duration of legal consequences

Article 117

- (1) Legal consequences of conviction shall begin on the day of rendering of a final judgement.
- (2) Should it happen that, upon coming into effect of a judgement grounded on which are legal consequences, that sentence be changed in compliance with an extraordinary legal remedy, commencement or further continuation of legal effects of the sentence shall be brought into compliance with a new decision.
- (3) Legal consequences of conviction consisting in the prohibition of acquisition of certain rights, can be prescribed in duration of a period not exceeding ten years.
- (4) The time spent on serving a penalty shall not be credited to the period of duration of legal effects.
- (5) Legal consequences of conviction envisaged by provisions of Article 116, Paragraph 2 of the present Code, shall be discontinued by rehabilitation.

CHAPTER NINE

REHABILITATION, DISCONTINUANCE OF LEGAL CONSEQUENCES OF CONVICTION AND DISCLOSURE OF DATA FROM CRIMINAL RECORDS

General notion of rehabilitation

Article 118

- (1) It is by rehabilitation that conviction shall be obliterated and all its legal consequences cease, whereas the convicted person shall be deemed to be not convicted i.e. to have no prior convictions.

(2) Rehabilitation shall come into effect either by law (legal rehabilitation) or upon a motion by a convicted person based on the judicial decision (judicial rehabilitation).

(3) No rights of third persons grounded on conviction shall be encroached by rehabilitation.

Legal rehabilitation

Article 119

(1) Legal rehabilitation shall be granted solely to persons who, prior to the conviction the rehabilitation is related to, had no prior convictions or who were deemed by law to have had no prior convictions.

(2) Legal rehabilitation shall be granted in the following instances:

1) if a person convicted but remitted of a penalty, or pronounced to whom is a judicial admonition, does not commit any new criminal offence within the period of one year of coming into effect of the sentence,

2) if a person on whom a suspended sentence is imposed, does not commit any new criminal offence during the testing period and within the period of one year of expiration of the term of testing,

3) if a person sentenced to a fine, penalty of community service or penalty of imprisonment in duration of no longer than six months, does not commit any new criminal offence within the period of three years of the day of execution, barring by limitation or remission of the penalty thereof,

4) if a person sentenced to imprisonment exceeding six months to one year, does not commit any new criminal offence within the period of five years of the day of execution, barring by limitation or remission of the penalty thereof.

(3) Legal rehabilitation shall not commence if an accessory penalty has not yet been executed or if security measures are still in force.

Judicial rehabilitation

Article 120

(1) Judicial rehabilitation can be approved to a person sentenced to imprisonment exceeding one year to two years, should within the period of five years of the day the penalty has been completed i.e. served, barred by limitation or pardoned, no new criminal offence be committed by that person.

(2) Judicial rehabilitation can be approved to a person sentenced to imprisonment exceeding two years to three years, should no new criminal offence be committed by that person within the period of eight years of the day the penalty has been completed i.e. served, barred by limitation or pardoned.

(3) In the case referred to in Paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article a court of law shall approve rehabilitation if it ascertains that the convicted person has deserved to be rehabilitated by his/her proper conduct and if s/he has compensated for the damage caused by his/her criminal offence according to his/her financial possibilities, whereas the court shall be obliged to take into consideration all other circumstances of relevance for approving rehabilitation, and specifically the very nature and significance of the criminal offence.

(4) Judicial rehabilitation may not be approved if an accessory penalty has not yet been executed or if security measures are still in force.

Judicial rehabilitation of persons with several prior convictions

Article 121

A person who has been convicted several times can be granted a rehabilitation by the court solely if conditions referred to in Articles 119 and 120 are satisfied in respect to each of criminal offences that person has been convicted for. When assessing whether to grant rehabilitation in such a case, the court shall take into consideration all circumstances referred to in Article 120, Paragraph 3.

Cessation of legal consequences of conviction

Article 122

(1) After the lapse of time of three years of the day of a served, barred by limitation or pardoned penalty, a court of law may decide on discontinuation of legal effects of a sentence related to the prohibition of acquisition of a specific right, if it has not already ceased due to rehabilitation.

(2) When deciding on discontinuation of legal consequences of conviction, the court shall take into consideration the convicted person's conduct after having been convicted, whether s/he has compensated for the damage caused by his/her criminal offence and returned back the property gain obtained by perpetration of a criminal offence, as well as other circumstances that may indicate to the justifiability of discontinuation of legal consequences of conviction.

Disclosure of data from criminal records

Article 123

(1) Official criminal record shall encompass the following: personal data on the perpetrator of a criminal offence; data on penalties, a suspended sentence and a judicial admonition; pardoned penalties related to an offender the criminal record is maintained for, as well as data on legal consequences of conviction; subsequent changes of data comprised in criminal records; data on serving a penalty and cancellation of record on a wrongfully pronounced sentence.

(2) Record on educational measures shall encompass the following: personal data on juvenile offenders, data on educational measures that have been administered and enforced, as well as other data related to the administration of educational measures.

(3) Data filed in official criminal record may be disclosed solely to a court of law, the state prosecutor and authorities of internal affairs, related to the criminal procedure instituted against a person who has prior convictions, as well as to the body in charge of execution of criminal sanctions and the body that participates in the procedure of granting amnesty, abolition, rehabilitation or deciding on cessation of legal consequences of a sentence, same as to the tutelary authorities when so needed for the conduct of duties within their competence.

(4) Data from criminal records may also be disclosed upon reasoned request, to a state authority, enterprise, other organization or entrepreneur, if legal consequences of a sentence or security measures are still lasting and if there exists a justified interest based on law.

(5) No one shall be entitled to request from a citizen to submit any evidence on his prior convictions or non-existence of such prior convictions.

(6) On citizens' request, data on the existence or non-existence of prior convictions may be presented to them solely if such data are needed for the purpose of exercising their rights abroad.

CHAPTER TEN

BARRING BY TIME LIMITS

Barring by time limits criminal prosecution

Article 124

(2) Barring by limitation of enforcement of a security measure consisting of mandatory psychiatric treatment at freedom, mandatory medical treatment of drug addicts, mandatory medical treatment of alcoholics and seizure of things shall take place after expiration of five years of the day of coming into effect of the decision pronounced by which are these measures.

(3) Barring by limitation of enforcement of a security measure consisting of prohibition from practising a profession, business activities and duties, prohibition of driving a motor vehicle and expulsion of foreigner from the country, shall take place after expiration of the time period for which these measures have been pronounced.

(4) Enforcement of the measure of mandatory psychiatric treatment and custody in a health institution shall not be barred by limitation; however, if more than five years elapsed of coming into effect of the sentence pronounced by which is that safety measure, but its enforcement has not yet commenced, the court shall examine whether the execution of this measure is still needed.

Course and interruption of barring by time limits of enforcement of a penalty and a security measure

Article 128

(1) Barring by limitation of enforcement of a penalty shall commence of the day of coming into effect of the sentence by which the penalty is pronounced, and should a suspended sentence be repealed – of the day of coming into effect of the decision on repeal.

(2) Should by the act of amnesty or pardon or judicial decision on an extraordinary legal remedy, the pronounced penalty be reduced, the time period needed for barring by limitation to take place shall be determined against a new penalty, but the period of prescription shall be considered from the former sentence.

(3) Barring by limitation shall not run during the time period in which enforcement of a penalty cannot be undertaken by law.

(4) Barring by limitation shall be interrupted by each act of a competent authority undertaken for the purpose of enforcement of a penalty.

(5) Upon each interruption, prescription shall commence to run again.

(6) Barring by limitation of enforcement of a penalty shall take place anyway after expiration of twice the time prescribed by law for prescription of enforcement of a penalty.

(7) In the event of barring by limitation referred to in Paragraph 6 of this Article, already commenced execution of a penalty shall be discontinued.

(8) Provisions of Paragraphs 2 to 5 of this Article shall also be applied accordingly to barring by limitation of enforcement of security measures.

Criminal offences not subject to the time limit bars

Article 129

Criminal prosecution and execution of a penalty for criminal offences envisaged by Articles 426 to 431 of the present Code are not subject to the time limit bars, as well as for criminal offences for which according to the international treaties, barring by limitation cannot take place.
